10 DEAD, 30 HURT, 7 MISSING IN TRAIN WRECK NEAR LUCAS

Pennsy Flyer Crashes Into Freight Cars

Early Morning Disaster is Worst Rail Tragedy in Mansfield Area in Years; Workers Still Hunting Bodies.

BULLETIN

Three more bodies were removed from the wreckage of the "Golden Triangle" at 12:30 p. m. today and workmen who succeeded in cutting into the buckled troop coach and lifting part of it said that "from five to eight more bodies are visible inside."

By PHILIP GREENE

The most disastrous rail wreck in the Mansfield area in many years claimed at least seven lives and injured an estimated 30 persons on the Pennsylvania railroad, 12 miles southeast of Mansfield early this morning. The trains piled up in a mass of wreckage at Coulter, five miles east of Lucas.

Two eastbound freight trains and a crack westbound passenger train, the "Golden Triangle," piled up in a spectacular mass of wreckage at the Coulter pumping station of the Ohio Oil company.

The crash, which occurred at 2:25 a. m., trapped many of the victims in a passenger coach which filled with live steam that gushed from one of the wrecked locomotives. Injured persons and bodies of the dead were still being freed by use of acetylene cutting torches shortly before noon. Two engines were pulling the passenger train.

Among the passengers were more than 100 soldiers bound from Ft. Dix, N. J., to the west coast for eventual overseas duty.

At least four who lost their lives were servicemen.

While six bodies had been removed from the wreckage at noon, most of them from the first coach of the "Golden Triangle," workers said there might be six or seven more buried in the wreckage.

Rail workmen and police said some of the bodies probably wouldn't be located until cranes lifted the wrecked locomotives and coaches.

Physicians and nurses from surrounding communities climbed into many of the wrecked cars in some of which lights were still burning to administer first aid and pain-allaying sedatives to the injured.

Most of the injured were moved to General hospital in Mansfield. Others, however, were reported taken to hospitals at Wooster, Ashland and Crestline. Authorities at Ft. Hayes, Columbus, were reported to be sending ambulances to Mansfield for removal of some of the injured soldiers to the post hospital there.

* * *

Freight Had Stopped.

Rail officials said their preliminary investigation indicated one of the freight trains, east bound, had stopped because of a broken air hose. The second freight train crashed into the rear of the first, piling up both freights and throwing freight cars into the path of the Chicago-bound passenger train.

Wreckage of 13 cars, six of them passenger coaches, three locomotives, one caboose and rails was strewn for nearly 100 yards along the tracks, on both sides of the highly banked right of way.

One passenger coach, the first car immediately behind the rear passenger locomotive, was bent around one of the locomotives.

* * *

Steam Pours Into Car.

It was this car into which observers said live steam poured and in which hysterical passengers screamed and fought with each other to escape.

Soon after the crash ambulances, doctors and volunteer workers streamed into the scene from Mansfield, Ashland, Loudonville, Wooster, Shelby, Galion and other smaller communities.

The disaster preparedness committee of the Richland county chapter of the American Red Cross, under the direction of Mrs. Sam Campbell and Mrs. W. B. Ford, arrived early with hot soup and coffee and rolls and doughnuts for the workers.

Hospital Highly Praised

Despite already crowded conditions and the need for 100 more hospital beds for its normal load, Mansfield General hospital won high praise today of persons who aided in taking the 30 injured victims of the train wreck to the hospital.

Staff physicians were on the job as quickly as they could be summoned and members of the nurses aide corps of the Red Cross were summoned to help staff nurses.

Louis Ott, member of the hospital board, said: "It was one of those emergencies which the hospital is always thinking might happen at any time. As the result of this preparedness, for just such an emergency, patients were taken care of with a minimum of wasted time and effort, although crowded conditions made the situation pretty acute.

"I think the situation this morning proves definitely that the hospital does need additional beds. It seems to me that something should be done about crowded conditions as quickly as possible."

Eerie Quiet Quickly Settles Over Nearby Coulter As Workmen Strive to Remove Last of Wreck Dead

By KEN WOODMAN
N-J Executive Editor

Two hours after the wreck of the "Golden Triangle" this morning an eerie quiet settled over the little Coulter community.

The shrieks of "Help!" and "Kill me, kill me!" were stilled —by death itself, by the half grains of morphia administered by a score of doctors, or by rescue.

Ambulances had moved all but the last of the dead and injured from the scene.

The relief train had taken away hysterical passengers.

A biting wind whipped through the darkness and chilled the toiling rescue crews. Even the workers' voices were quiet. Only occasional shouts for tools and torches punctuated the stillness. Flashlights bobbed through the wreckage. Acetylene torches flared.

* * *

A voice said "There's one G.I. still alive in there. He's wedged in under a dead body." By "there" the voice meant the first troop coach. Its steel hulk was bent like the blade of a sickle down the side of the embankment.

Above and behind it stood the second troop coach. It lurched sidewise on the roadbed. Steel rails twisted crazily around it. Windows were shattered. Inside, the overhead lights glowed as if nothing had happened.

The workmen huddled around the pit-like entrance to the underside of the car. They moved in unison. A man was handed out on a stretcher and quickly wrapped in a blanket.

"Is he alive?"

The man was still alive. But the morphine had completely deadened his senses. He was slipped into a waiting ambulance and whisked away.

* * *

Just west of the wrecked coach a locomotive lay on its side. It had hurtled down the bank, burying its nose up to the headlight in the earth.

The locomotive was cold now. Workmen crawled over it. But it had been hot.

It had been terribly hot two short hours ago. The workmen pulled out a body which was one of the three jammed into the cab so that only their feet protruded. The body was burned black.

"We can't get the other two out until the wrecking train comes to lift this thing," said one of the men—but he kept on working.

* * *

Mansfield's Mayor Roy W. Vaughn helped them carry the charred body away. Service Director William W. Enlow scrambled up through the darkness to where crews were fishing into the wreckage through the broken windows of the overturned coach.

Sheriff Frank Robinson stood by an ambulance checking details of how the wreck occurred. Coroner D. C. Lavender talked to a survivor amid a circle of reporters. Fire Chief L. J. Steele and his men toiled with the rescuers.

Inside the pumping station W. B. Ford and his Red Cross helpers poured hot coffee and served crackers and rolls. Capt. Richard Gutterman of the Vol-

Servicemen Win Survivors' Praise

By NITA BRANSON

Their faces still expressing bewilderment and disbelief that such a thing could have happened while most of them were on their way home for Christmas, 18 service men lay on cots or reclined in chairs in the emergency room at General hospital this morning, while nurses treated their numerous cuts, bruises and broken ribs.

Most of the men were from Ft. Dix, N. J., on "delay en route" to Camp Stoneman, Calif., expecting to spend a day or two with their "folks at home" before going on to the west coast.

Their dream of eating turkey with Mom and Pop appeared shattered as the result of the wreck of the Pennsylvania trains at Coulter early this morning.

* * *

JOSEPH HILGER, OF HARTman, Wis., who sat on the end of a cot told of the sudden death that rode the four coaches filled with 200 service men, with a matter-of-fact voice.

"I was sitting in the coach half asleep, when suddenly something hit us and I was thrown onto the floor and knocked unconscious. When I came to, I smashed one of the windows and crawled out, and went into the power house."

When asked if he was injured, he said casually, "Oh, just a couple of broken ribs and a bump on the head."

* * *

ELMER HILL, former Mansfield man, who left here in 1944 for Galion and entered service from there, was en route to the Ft. Sheridan hospital from a sick leave to his home in Nellis, W. Va. The back injury, received in a mine accident and aggravated by service duty, wasn't helped any by the shake-up in the wreck.

It was a dreary group of servicemen, most of them youngsters, who lay quietly on the cots or sat around talking quietly thinking of those of their group who would never return to camp or enjoy a Christmas dinner again.

Most of them were young. One a round faced cherubic looking

Torches Cut Steel In Rescue Work

By MARGUERITE MILLER

The sharp light of acetylene torches cut the darkness, blanching the faces of the rescue crews. Ambulances for the living pulled in among the twisted wreckage of tumbled freight and passenger cars. A cold, sharp wind cut the hands and faces of those who stood ready to lend a hand with stretcher or crow bar.

"There's one alive in there, but they can't get him out."

A rescue worker pointed to the lower corner of a passenger coach, bent like a rainbow across the torn track.

Four pair of feet stretched out limply from beneath an overturned engine.

On the other side of the tracks, the broken bodies of a freight engineer and fireman lay crumpled.

The acetylene torch broke through the bottom of the coach.

* * *

"STRETCHER!" FIRE CHIEF L. J. Steele of Mansfield, called out. "Bring a low one."

A soldier was lowered on the canvas and a blanket thrown over him. The light from the torches caught his blond hair.

"That one's still alive," someone said. The ambulance whirled away into the darkness to the nearest hospital.

Doctors and nurses administered pain-killing morphine to those they could reach in the twisted car. Red Cross workers and neighbors kept coffee brewing for the chilled workers in the emergency station, set up in the Ohio Oil company's pumping plant.

* * *

DUFFLE BAGS LITTERED the embankment to the tracks. One lone brown shoe had been set atop one of the bags. An army shirt lay flattened out and crumpled in the cinders.

A relief train pulled up farther down the track. One unidentified soldier, his clothing rumpled and a duffle bag over his shoulder climbed aboard.

"I'm just damned lucky—some of them weren't in that first coach."

WHEN THE ultimate declarer has bid nothing except a single suit, and his partner has bid only one other suit, it is easy to see through his probable playing plan in advance. In fact, it is so easy that it is practically transparent. Unless something unusual prevails concerning either the declarer's and dummy's holdings, or with those of the defenders, the declarer will merely try to take out the trumps and use the dummy's suit for discarding a loser or losers in the two unbid suits. Consequently a lead of either bid suit ordinarily starts the declarer on his own plan, earning his gratitude for you.

Talk about a "Leaping Lena!" That was some funny last bid by South, when he had three losers in the two unbid suits. He bargained on North having the heart K or A or the club A, in order to block off at least one of those losers, perhaps enough to stop any side losers if he had nothing of particular use in diamonds.

He was pretty lucky. North did not have such a holding, but the opening lead inhibitions of West were unsound enough to give him his contract. Instead of treating both spades and diamonds as poison—as he should except with a freak holding—West decided he must open one of them to avoid leading the suits with his A and K. He picked a trump. South cleared the diamonds, then on spades discarded his only club, after which he couldn't lose anything except two hearts.

A truly fine defender in the West would have determined first that he must lead the unbid hearts or clubs. Most would have selected the club A. Seeing the K in dummy, they then would have switched to a heart, and the contract would have been down. What the declarer's side bid is generally more important in determining the lead than the cards you hold, especially when there have been several different declarations along the way.

Fifth Set of Games Scheduled In County League

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK—(UP)—The mile run, glamor event of the indoor track season, began today to resemble Times Square on New Year's eve as the shin splint old guard flocked back to the hardwood before relinquishing 1948 Olympic honors to the youngsters.

Four former indoor kings will head the massive field which lines up this winter to brawl over the mile laurels. These runners are Leslie MacMitchell, Frank Dixon, Jimmy Rafferty and Gil Dodds, the comeback parson.

Joining them will be Old Long John Woodruff, who won 800-meter laurels in the 1936 Olympics while at Pittsburgh; Bill Hulse, the big blond who holds the 4:06 American outdoor mark, Tom Quinn, and intercollegiate champion Ed Walsh of Manhattan. They will be joined by another foreign invader, Rune Gustafson of Sweden who has turned the eight furlongs in 4 04

But it simply is a fill-in period with most of these middle-distance runners making a last hunt for the deadlines. On the whole they are too old to be serious threats in the 1948 Olympiad.

None of them, including Dodds who set the 4:06.4 indoor record, figures to be any real competition for the metric mile at London two years hence. Sweden, at the moment, apparently has a mortal lock on that coveted 1,500 meter title.

Gunder Hagg and Arne Andersson, the Swedish skyrockets who battered the mile record down to 4:01.4, both have been declared professionals for a bit of expense padding So the Swedes came up with Lennart Strand and Gustafson, both of whom have been clocked in 4 04 The additional word is that they have a half dozen more at home just like them sitting around waiting for the international muscle brawl.

America's hopes for a good showing in the Olympic 1,500-meters—the real glamor event—lie with the overlooked kids now in college. And there are a lot of good ones who may develop into a threat to the Swedes

You won't hear much about them this winter as the old pros cop the printer's ink but here are some that will be moving front and center next summer when the Olympic light starts glowing:

Quentin Brelsford, Ohio Wesleyan; Roland Sink, USC, Jack Dianetti, Michigan State Bill Clifford, Ohio State, Earl Mitchell Indiana; Bob Rehberg, Illinois Bill Mack of Drake and Marston Girard of Stanford

Breisford won the national collegiate cross-country title in a breeze and has turned in a 4:16 mile. Dianetti won the national junior 1,500 in 1945 and Mack picked it up this year. Sink took the seniors two years ago while Mitchell has done 4:08; Rehberg, 4:15 and Girard 4:12.9.

The flood of indoor meets in recent years has centered national interest on the mile and the 1,500 meters. This despite the fact that the United States never has dominated the event in the Olympics Our winning strength has been in the sprints and the field events—and that is where it is going to have to be again in 1948

Yet the sprinters the vaulters and the whales must take a back seat again this winter Our Olympic winners will have to wait for the summer sun to throw them into bold relief while the old pros dominate the hot house one last time

Coast After Major League

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP)—Demanding that the major leagues take immediate action in declaring the Pacific Coast league a big-time organization for the 1947 season, Paul I. Fagan, vice president of the San Francisco Seals, today said his league was financially and geographically situated for such an undertaking.

Syracuse University's home attendance during the '46 football season was up 63 per cent over the previous year.

DRIVERS MUST SPEED

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (U.P.) — California, which technically has no upper speed limit for automobiles, is considering setting penalties for drivers who go too slowly. The legislature has been asked to give highway patrolmen the power to make unreasonagly slow drivers speed up or get off the road.

ORDINANCE NO. 46-253

By Mr. Miller

AN ORDINANCE TO VACATE A PORTION OF RIDGE ALLEY EXTENDING EASTWARD FROM NORTH ADAMS STREET TO NORTH WILLIS AVENUE IN MANSFIELD, OHIO

WHEREAS, The Ohio Public Service company has filed a petition asking for the vacation of a portion of Ridge Alley extending east from North Adams street to North Willis avenue in the City of Mansfield, Ohio, and in said petition has represented and declared that it is the owner of the land abutting on said portion of Ridge Alley, and that its lands are in the immediate vicinity thereof; and

WHEREAS, the owner of the abutting property in the signing and filing of said petition under the provisions of Section 3725 of the General Code of Ohio agreed and consented to such vacation thereby no notice of the filing of such petition or application is required by law; and

WHEREAS, the Council of said City, upon hearing and upon being satisfied that there is good cause for such vacation of the portion of said Ridge Alley as prayed for, and that it will not be detrimental to the general interest, and that it should be made:

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, OHIO.

Section 1: That that portion of Ridge Alley extending eastward from North Adams street to North Willis avenue be and the same is hereby vacated, it is provided, however, that said vacation is made subject to any and all existing easements used or enjoyed by said City for water, sewer, or light purposes.

Section 2: That this ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

W. E. BRADFORD, Pres. of Council
Attest: Charles J. Stecker, Clerk.
Passed. Dec 3, 1946.
Approved. ROY W. VAUGHN
Mayor.

ORDINANCE NO. 46-255

By Mr. Knapp

Determining to proceed with the construction of a sanitary sewer in Burns Street from Lawnsdale Avenue to Stark Stret and in Stark Street therefrom to McPherson Street.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO; three-fourths of all membeis elected thereto concurring:

Section 1: That it is hereby determined to proceed with the construction of a sanitary sewer in Burns Street from Lawnsdale Avenue to Stark Street and in Stark Street therefrom to McPherson Street according to plans and specifications now on file in the office of the City Engineer, all in accordance with Resolution 46-216 passed November 12, 1946, and in accordance with plans, specifications, estimates and profiles heretofore approved and now on file in the office of the Director of Public Service.

Section 2: That the cost of said improvement less two per cent thereof shall be assessed in proportion to the benefits which may result from said improvement upon the following lots and lands, to-wit: All lots and lands bounding and abutting upon proposed improvement, not already assessed for sanitary sewer, which lots and lands are hereby determined to be specially benefitted by said improvement, and the cost of said improvement shall include the cost of preliminary and other surveys, printing and publishing of notices, the cost of construction together with interest on notes and bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments and all other necessary expenditures.

Section 3. That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in three annual installments with interest on deferred payment at the same rate as the bonds that shall be issued in anticipation of the collection thereof; provided that the owners of any property assessed may at his option pay such assessment in cash within 30 days after the passage of the assessing ordinnce.

Section 4: That bonds of the City of Mansfield, Ohio shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto

Section 5: That to pay the remainder of the cost of said improvement not specially assessed, there be and hereby is appropriated from General Fund the sum of Seventy Dollars ($70.00).

Section 6: That the Director of Public Service be and he hereby is authorized and directed as soon as funds therefore are available to make and execute a contract for said improvement with the lowest and best bidder after advertisement according to law.

Section 7: That this Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after the earliest time allowed by law.

Passed Dec. 3, 1946.
Signed: W. E. BRADFORD,
President of Council.
Attest: C. J. STECKER,
Clerk of Council.
Approved: ROY W. VAUGHN.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

TWO ANXIOUS FOLKS

Thunderer the Grouse and Mrs. Grouse had gone to bed in the middle of the afternoon. Perhaps it would be better to say that they had gone to roost, or had retired, for a bough of a tree can hardly be said to be a bed. Snow was falling, making deeper the snow already on the ground. Snow had fallen early and often this winter. The two Grouse were up in a fir tree. Sitting close to the trunk they were protected from falling snow and from wind by the spreading boughs above them with their broad surfaces so covered with snow that none could now sift through. Had they had a real roof over their heads they could not have been better protected, more snugly comfortable. They felt safe as well as warm. Not even the night-seeing eyes of Hooty the Owl could find them there.

But they were not happy. No, sir, they were not happy. That was because they were anxious. "This snow is going to turn to rain before long. That's as sure as it is that I can spread my ruff," declared Thunderer, spreading his black neck ruff just to prove he could.

"I think you are right, my dear," replied Mrs. Grouse. "I did my best to get the children to take to the trees for tonight, but they wouldn't do it. They insisted on going to bed down in the snow."

"I guess you should never have shown them how to do that," said Thunderer. "They seem to think it is great fun to plunge into the snow and spend a night hidden in it."

"I like to do it myself when the snow is deep enough and there is no danger of being trapped under a crust. Of course, the children didn't know anything about that, this being their first winter. They don't know what a crust is. They think we are being foolish by sleeping up here when we might be so comfortable down in the snow as we have been on other nights. The poor dears don't think we can tell what the weather will be, only what is. It is still snowing and they think that makes matters just so much better because it will fill up the places they made diving into the snow. They'll feel just so much safer, so they say. We can't tell young folks much these days," said Mrs. Grouse.

Thunderer chuckled. "No more could we be told when we were young. Young folks never have liked to be told and don't today. They want to be shown through experience. That is all right when it isn't too costly," said he.

"If this snow turns to rain no harm will be done if Jack Frost will keep away. But if he comes around"—Mrs. Grouse didn't finish.

"You don't like to think what can happen. Is that it?" said Thunderer.

Mrs. Grouse admitted that this was it. "The poor dears don't know what a dreadful thing being made helpless can be. I hope they may never know, but I'm afraid," she added.

She had reason to be afraid, not for herself but for those young Grouse. Sometimes snow is dry and sometimes it is wet. The snow falling now was wet. It became more and more so until at last a fine rain instead of snow was falling. The two Grouse in the fir tree didn't know when the change took place. By that time they were asleep. And the rain did not get through to them, anyway. Even as the rain fell it froze almost as soon as it touched the surface of the snow. Not far away the young Grouse slept buried in the snow. While they were young they were quite grown in all but the knowledge and wisdom that comes from experience. The rain merely wet the surface of the snow above them, so they knew nothing of it. And they wouldn't have been disturbed if they had known. What harm could a little rain do? So they slept peacefully.

Some time in the night the rain stopped. Then Jack Frost arrived and really went to work. That wet top snow was perfect for making snow ice. By morning everything was covered with glistening white ice. Over those still sleeping young Grouse there was a thick roof of it. Father and mother in the fir tree were awake at daybreak. They almost had to break their way out. They were two anxious folks as they flew down on the hard crust above where the young Grouse had gone to bed.

CHURCHES SEE NEED TO END LABOR UNREST

Council Urges Improvement in Relationship of Workers and Owners.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—An increasing interest in problems striking at the national economy is being taken by the churches of the United States. Aside from improvement in general labor-management relations, it is felt, the thing most needed is to end racial discrimination.

That is the conclusion reached by the department of research and education of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America—a Protestant organization embracing most Christion faiths outside the Roman Catholic church.

The council states: "In order to maintain a high level of employment and acceptable conditions of employment, we must not treat as inferior any of the races that make up the composite of our people and deny them completely equal opportunities for education, employment, and participation in other aspects of what we claim to be a democratic society."

Gives Warning.

The council warns that "the grim specter of mass unemployment still hovers over even our comparatively prosperous American society" despite an increasing volume of civilian goods and a high level of employment.

The economic situation is met with the declaration, "Christians cannot regard with complacency the threatened recurrence of another great depression . . . for economics is one of the major aspects of human relations. And human relations are a major concern of religion."

"It is time for Christion churches to develop doers of the word by exploring and encouraging intelligent application of that teaching to modern economic problems," the Council states, and adds that it means gainful employment.

That a mild form of socialism is here to stay is more or less admitted without a direct statement to that effect.

There "is an inevitably increasing role of government in our economic life," the study finds, but the council does not consider that a bad thing. Free enterprise, it states, is not what most people seem to think of it as being.

Enterprise Curbed.

Government regulation in the United States is not new. The report points out for the past 50 years the freedom of private enterprise, especially on the part of corporation capital and its combinations, has been substantially curbed by state and national government.

It has come to be recognized," the council reports, "that freedom even of economic enterprise imposes social responsibility, and that such responsibility must be enforced by the government."

This official organization of Protestant churches takes both labor and management to task for forgetting their responsibilities by "far too little recognition of public responsibility," and adds, "in these circumstances Christianity has a teaching of individual and social responsibility and devotion to the enrichment of individual and community life."

It appeals to churches over the nation to help their members reach intelligent judgments "and to make their judgments more effective in action."

W. R. LEECH, 69, STRICKEN

Willis R. Leech, 69, former Mansfield resident, died early today at St. Luke's hospital in Milwaukee, Wis., following a heart attack.

Mr. Leech was born in Mansfield on July 13, 1877. He was co-partner in Leech Brothers, haberdashers here for many years

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Martha King, of Milwaukee; Mrs. Thelma Stinson, of Newark, and Mrs. Grace Shaffer, of Providence, R. I., and one brother, Harvey Leech.

The body will be brought to the Jones Memorial here. Arrangements are incomplete, awaiting the arrival of members of the family.

SET RITES FOR WILLARD YOUTH

WILLARD — Search for the body of Allen Richard Arnold, 21, who was drowned at Monterey Beach, Calif., Thanksgiving day, was discontinued yesterday as the father, Allen J. Arnold, and brother, Tom, both of Willard, flew to Baltimore, Md., for services today.

Rites will be held in the St. Edwards Catholic church in Baltimore. Arnold and his son will join Mrs. Arnold, and daughter Jane and son James, who left here Wednesday for Baltimore.

Requiem mass was held at St. Francis Xavier church here Wednesday morning with Rev. J. B. Fralick officiating.

Yound Arnold was drowned while bathing at Monterey Beach with several companions, all students at Leland-Stanford university, when the undertow swept him out to sea.

The father and brother had gone to California to help in the search.

The Dutch established a maritime station at the Cape of Good Hope, Africa's southern tip, in 1652.

SERVICEMEN WIN HIGH PRAISE

kid, sat with tears running down his cheeks, as the nurse swabbed his injured head.

* * *

UP IN THE HOSPITAL wards, five others lay critically burned, and a sixth, suffering less severely from the hot steam which invaded the coaches after the accident.

A tribute to the courage and aid given by those service men who escaped injury was paid by Reynard Frauenfeldersh, of Whitewater, Wis., who with his wife was in the coach behind those filled with soldiers.

"They were wonderful," he declared. "I can't begin to express my appreciation for what they did.

"I was awake when the accident happened," he said. "I kept feeling that the train was going too fast, a sort of premonition, I guess. My wife was asleep.

* * *

"SUDDENLY, IT FELT AS IF we had been struck by a bomb. I was thrown to the floor, but my wife was not hurt. The cars were swinging wildly from one side to another, the lights went out and all around us we could hear screaming and crying.

"Then suddenly there was a flash of hot steam right through the coach. I was so hot I could scarcely stand it.

"I wanted to cover my wife's face but could find nothing. Then I smashed two of the windows and we crawled out, a couple of the soldiers helping us through. They were wonderful, so calm and efficient, just as if nothing had happened. They brought us blankets."

* * *

THEY WERE SITTING, shocked and shaken in the emergency room of the hospital, Frauenfeldersh with a bruised leg propped on a chair. Their suitcase was beside them, but they had lost almost everything else.

"We gave one of the boys my underwear. He scarcely had anything on. I guess he'd fallen in some of the hot water and had to take off his clothes."

Others in the hospital sat around in the hallways, and emergency room, waiting until the doctors could treat their minor injuries. Out in the front hall, Carl Herzog, of Godfrey, Ill., and Martin Yonan, of Chicago, both servicemen from Ft. Dix, sat with head and hand taped, thankful that they could go on their way.

It was a morning of tense, swift work. Even the nurses, trained to calmness in sudden disaster and emergency, were somewhat shaken although their swift, efficient fingers picked up without tremor instruments and gauze and tape at the bidding of staff doctors.

John Yona, 77, Stricken Here

John Yona, 77, of 278 Park avenue east, died last night at the Mansfield Sanitarium-Hospital after several weeks' illness.

Born in Hungary, Nov. 16, 1869, Mr. Yona came to Mansfield many years ago. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of the World.

Surviving are his widow, Margaret; three step-sons, Earl Kaufman, of Canada, and Joseph and Anton Kaufman of California, and two step-daughters, Mrs. Charles Weigle and Miss Anna Kaufman of New York.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in charge of Rev. Paul H. Saleste. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

unteers of America was busy at a second table.

Outside the wind grew steadily colder. Shivering bystanders came into the building, some of them wrapped in blankets.

"They found two more dead in the coach," one of them said.

The sky began to lighten slowly.

* * *

A soldier with blood on his coat and dirt on his cap said quietly:

"I want to call my mom."

Newspapermen brought him to Mansfield and he placed his call from the News-Journal office.

While his call was going out hundreds of calls were coming into the News-Journal editorial room from Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Columbus and Chicago.

Former News-Journal photographer Harold Valentine, now with the Associated Press, was busy trying to charter a plane to fly over the wreck. AP man Reed D. Smith, also a former N-J writer, was working with the local staff compiling a list of the dead and injured.

INP photographer Chester Wozney and INS reporter Frank Snyder from Cleveland were on the job here.

Typewriters clattered.

A telephone jangled. Two more of the dead had been identified. Slowly the story of tangled steel and broken bodies began to unravel its grim details.

Flash of Torches Cutting Steel Tell of Rescue Try

His voice quavered with shock. His two buddies were silent.

* * *

THE RELIEF TRAIN PULLED out to make way for the wrecker.

"Stretcher here!" the call came. Workmen had succeeded in disentangling one of the bodies that belonged to a pair of feet beneath the engine.

The crowd was quiet. a mashed body was covered with a blanket. The crowd stood back, hands in pockets, coat collars turned up. They couldn't help now.

"God, he's been in there over three hours—let's get him out!" a worker breathed. His vain name taking was more a prayer than profanity.

* * *

ALL EFFORTS HAD BEEN made to get the living out. This soldier, pinned in by his legs, under dead bodies in the coach was conscious.

"We'll have to go in from the top." Workers streamed over the upturned side of the passenger coach. "Hand up that wrecking bar. The wall is pushed up like corrugated paper against the ceiling."

They found another soldier alive. Highway patrolmen clambered up the ladders with the wrecking crews. Finally the soldier came out by rope, blood-soaked from head to foot, but still alive.

As the sun rose, workers were still working feverishly over the other three pair of feet under the engine and trying to cut through to the still conscious man under the dead bodies.

Nobody had mentioned that it was Friday the 13th.

He leaves his widow, Cora; one son, Charles, of Mt. Gilead; three daughters, Mrs. Mary Roach of Mt. Gilead; Mrs. Helen Bishop, of Cleveland; and Mrs. Carrie Staunton, of Mt. Vernon; and one stepdaughter, Mrs. Bertha Burkhart of Upper Sandusky.

Services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday, in the Craven funeral home here with Rev. L. E. Rush in charge. Burial will be Rivercliff cemetery.

MRS. MARY TRIMMER

WILLARD — Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Trimmer, 77, who died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Evans, will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Fink funeral home with burial in New Haven cemetery. Rev. G. C. Herrelinger will officiate.

Mrs. Trimmer had been an invalid for many years. Besides the daughter, Mrs. Evans, she is survived by two sons, Wayne and Henry, both of Willard. Her husband, H. G. Trimmer, died in 1931.

It is estimated that college enrollments may reach 2,000,000 by 1950.

DIES IN ASHLAND

ASHLAND—Mrs. Laura Rockenfelder, Ashland, R. D. 2, died in Samaritan hospital today after a one-day illness. She was the widow of the late Julius Rockenfelder. The body was removed to the H. L. Hyle funeral home. Arrangements for services are incomplete pending arrival of members of the immediate family.

HEDDEN QUITS AS 2-COUNTY FHA DIRECTOR

New Londoner Resigns Farm Agency Post; E. G. Howard Succeeds Him.

G. W. Pryor, district supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration with headquarters at Athens, today announced the resignation of Henry F. Hedden, Richland and Ashland county supervisor, and the interim appointment of E. Gerald Howard of Lorain to fill the vacancy.

Hedden's resignation and Howard's appointment become effective today, Pryor said. Hedden, whose home is in New London, has been farm security supervisor of the two counties for the past four years.

Howard has served as supervisor of 20 northeastern Ohio counties with the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Service

* * *

Offices Merged.

In that capacity, Howard recently turned over his records of ECFL operating loans to the newly designated Farmers Home Administration office on the fourth floor of the Richland Trust company.

This action coincided with other operations still in progress throughout the nation to merge the Farm Security Administration and the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Service into one agency now known as the Farmers Home Administration.

Howard's interim appointment will continue in effect pending the completion of the merger, Pryor said.

The newly designated agency is still making farm ownership and farm operating loans, with about the only change being a hike in the interest rate or farm ownership loans from three to three-and-one-half per cent. The 40-year amortization period remains the same, Pryor said.

The top amount available to borrowers of farm ownership loans in Richland and Ashland county was recently upped from $6,400 to $12,000, to keep abreast with the rise in farm land prices.

At present the two county office has 100 outstanding accounts, of which 58 are FSA operating loans, 34 are ECFL operating loans and eight are FSA farm ownership loans, Pryor reported.

ERECTS CEMENT PLANT

NORWALK — (AP) — A cement batching plant, claimed largest in northern Ohio, is expected to be completed here within the next 10 days. It is being erected by the Bremser Coal & Supply company at a cost of $30,000.

Filling Pipelines' Called One of Industry's Big Jobs

One of the biggest problems facing consumer-goods industries is that of "filling the pipelines" of distribution, according to J. H. Ashbaugh, Westinghouse vice president in charge of the Mansfield plant.

In an article in the "Westinghouse News," company house organ, Ashbaugh pointed out the difficulty faced by factories After four years of war production, they must ship finished products to thousands of distributors and dealers before the articles are available to the consumer.

Producers must start out from "scratch," Ashbaugh said. Not only are the consumers starved for goods, but retailers and distributors' shelves are empty.

* * *

IF A FACTORY'S CAPACITY production of electric roasters is 500 units per day, it would take a full year to supply just six roasters to all the retail dealers in the United States, he declared.

Figuring 10,000 dealers at six roasters apiece and 100 distributors at 100 units apiece, 70,000 roasters would be needed.

On the basis of 20 working days a month, it would appear that the 70,000 roasters could be produced in seven months.

* * *

BUT ASHBAUGH POINTED out that it takes three months to achieve full production, and an additional two weeks to transport the goods from the factory to the dealer. Thus, under ideal conditions, the "pipelines" could not be filled in less than nine months.

Nor is it "as easy and as simple as that," he said. The reconversion period has placed many obstacles in the path of capacity production.

Ashbaugh estimated that delays, cut down deliveries of completed products and shortages add three months to the "perfect" production schedule, thus requiring a year to deliver six roasters to dealers throughout the country.

As an example of the difficulties faced by industry today, Ashbaugh cited a recent delay in the production of refrigerators at the Mansfield plant because planes shipping vitally-needed parts were grounded for a day.

SHINTO GODS LOSE GROUND

TOKYO—(INS)—Shinto gods who let Japan down with a thud during the past war have lost so much face they now draw less than a fifth of their pre-war shrine attendance.

Only the "cupid" shrines, supposed to have match-making powers, are doing a good business as Japan's soldier millions return from overseas.

The average Shinto shrine is having a hard time since Gen MacArthur last December forbade the Japanese government to prod and threaten the people into turning out to worship their ancestors and war gods.

Now, in order to support themselves, many previously wealthy shrines have turned to sponsoring marriages as a means of support.

Izumo, oldest shrine in Japan, is bustling with three times its pre-war activity as 60 to 70 thousand men and women make pilgrimage to the "cupid" shrine each month.

In addition to about 50,000 yen monthly left at the altar by the pilgrims, monthly receipts from marriage ceremonies range up to a hundred thousand yen.

Welthy couples frequently pay as high as 5,000 yen just for sacred music which consists of Shinto priests beating drums and blowing pipe-shaped reed instruments.

Of Japan's 110,000 registered Shinto shrines about 206 received direct support from the state.

Private Gifts.

Revenue for most shrines comes from private gifts, sales of charms and calendars, sacred dances and the fees for offering prayers.

Script Contest Planned by YMCA

The Young Men's Christian association this week announced its second annual YMCA radio script contest, with an award of $500 in cash and a guarantee of production for the script which, in the opinion of the judges, will help most to stimulate in individuals a desire to live their everyday lives in a way that will help to promote international peace.

The contest, entries for which must be submitted on or before midnight Jan. 31, is open to all writers except YMCA employes and their families. The winning script will be announced in March.

Details of the contest may be obtained from Don Cram, program director of the Mansfield YMCA.

MILWAUKEE FACING SYMPATHY WALKOUT

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — (U.P.) — A statewide "sympathy walkout" by CIO members in support of the lengthy and bloody United Automobile Workers' strike at the Allis-Chalmers manufacturing plant will be sought this week-end when the Wisconsin state industrial union council meets in its annual convention at Wausau.

Jess Nichols, regional CIO official directing the strike at the plant in suburban West Allis, said "there will be a resolution brought before the convention suggesting some form of statewide demonstration, possibly a sympathy walkout, in support of the Allis-Chalmers strike."

ARMY SETS DEC. 31 FILING DEADLINE

With six applications already received from Mansfielders for officer appointments in the regular army, M/Sgt Daniel DeSalvo, Mansfield recruiting station commander, pointed out today that Dec. 31 is the deadline for filing requests for such positions.

The recent authorization for increase in officer strength from 25,000 to 30,000 enables the army to offer attractive careers to many desirable and experienced wartime officers whose expensive training otherwise would be lost to the army when they return to civilian life, DeSalvo said.

Any man who served on active duty as a commissioned officer in the army of the United State at any time between Dec. 7, 1941, and Dec. 31, 1946, is eligible for appointment as an officer in the regular army.

Full information and the necessary application blanks are available in DeSalvo's office in the post office building.

GRANDPARENTS IMPRISON GIRL

TRENTON, N. J.—(U.P.)—A tiny 5-year-old girl was freed by police yesterday from the unheated third floor room of her grandparents' home where she had been living imprisoned like an animal for a year.

The grandparents, Harry and Jessie McConnell, and the child's mother, Mrs. Margaret Williams, 44, were held by the police for investigation.

Police said the child, Shirley Ruth, had been living in "indescribable filth."

When released she was clad only in a dirty sweater that reached to her waist, her feet were crusted with dirt and her hair was matted. "Even so, she was quite pretty," police said.

The prison-room was almost bare of furniture, containing a bed with no covers and a bench upon which the child was served food.

The child was taken to McKinley hospital where physicians said the child's health was good and that she had not been ill-fed.

The whereabouts of the child's father, Edwin Ruth, were not known by police.

STAYS EXECUTION

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche Wednesday postponed until Jan. 11 execution of Willie Jones, 20, of Cleveland, who was to die in the Ohio State penitentiary electric chair tonight. Jones, granted two previous stays, was convicted of the slaying of Wesley Bishop at Bishop's home in Cleveland Aug. 17, 1945, during an argument over a watch.

Favor New Route 13 to East of Airport

GROUPS HEAR STATE'S PLANS FOR PROJECT

City Officials Ask For Prompt Action to Get Highway Link Opened.

Surveys calling for two possible routes for a new State Highway 13 around Mansfield's municipal airport were presented yesterday afternoon to county commissioners at a meeting in which overwhelming support was given to the eastern route.

State Highway Director Perry T. Ford, as well as city and other county officials and other interested persons, attended the conference in the courthouse. County Engineer Walter E. Rusk, whose department had made the surveys, presided at the meeting.

Rusk, in reporting to the commissioners on the surveys had asked Ford and the others to attend the meeting in order to obtain opinions on choice between the two routes, one of which lies to the east of the airfield and one to the west.

Most of the opinion favored the eastern route, although Rusk had pointed out at the beginning of the meeting that the western route afforded greater economies in construction.

Major support for the eastern plan came from Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and other city officials, operators of brick yards to the east of the airport, the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, and a major property owner whose land would be bisected by the western route.

* * *

Wants Action Now.

Carl Stander, president of the Richland County Auto club, said that his group had no particular choice between the two alternate routes but did insist that a new highway be built.

"Route 13 is of great importance to the state and to the community. Mansfield is relatively isolated from the northern part of the state and Route 13 should be reestablished to remedy that condition," he said.

John B. Conard, president of the Richland Shale Brick company, located to the east of the airport, said constructing the highway to the east of the field "is not a selfish matter with us; it's our life blood."

He said his firm employs 68 persons who every day are required to use a poor grade crossing in order to cross the Erie railroad tracks to get to their work. He also said that his firm hauls some 50,000 brick per day by truck and vitally needs a first class highway.

Ford told the conferees that his department would made no choice between the two alternate routes, but would gladly consider whichever route is selected by local officials.

"This problem can be solved locally. I can't commit the state except that if I am in office I'll approve whatever you do," Ford said.

Next step for the county commissioners is to purchase land for the right of way and then ask the state to take the proposed route into its system. Financing the project was not discussed extensively although it was said that the city and county would probably have to contribute toward the cost of realizing the program.

Emil Stephan, manager of the Ohio Shale Face Brick company which is located near Conard's firm, said that the two brick companies were considering establishment of "a little village" out there because it was hard to induce employes to travel over second class roads.

Mayor Vaughn, City Engineer W. C. Statler and Airport Manager James R. Harrington also favored the eastern route.

Offers Port Access.

Vaughn pointed out that such a route would give access to the east side of the airport, the only side without a road leading to it; Statler called the eastern route "quite advantageous"; and Harrington said that in the cases of all major ports roads are necessary on all sides.

John G. Routzon, secretary of the C. of C., told the commissioners that, from an industrial standpoint, the eastern route was much more satisfactory.

"Along the Erie railroad tracks to the north of the city is the only good area for expansion of the city's industry. There we could tie into one spot the three most vital media of transportation: highway, rail and air," he said.

Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of the Ohio State reformatory over whose lands either route would pass, said he favored the eastern side.

Rusk's surveys call for a three and one-half mile stretch of new highway on either the east or west side of the port. They also provide for gradual Y-shaped intersections with a number of established county roads and eventual inclusion of a spur to State Route 545 which would pass through a proposed underpass under the Erie railroad tracks.

Demand for State Licenses Soars

COLUMBUS — (AP) — More restaurants, dry cleaning establishments and hotels were licensed in Ohio this year than in any time in the state's history, State Fire Marshal Harry J. Callan said yesterday.

Although shortages plagued all three types of businesses, 22,986 restaurants were licensed, 2,136 more than the previous record; along with 1,096 dry cleaning establishments, or one above the 1941 high mark. A total of 1,380 hotels were licensed, Callan reported.

Galion Post Plans Christmas Party

GALION — A Christmas party for members of the Scarbrough post, American Legion, auxiliary and guests, will be held next Monday, Comdr. Fred Zoller announced yesterday.

At a meeting earlier this week, the post voted the sum of $100 to the state department for disabled veterans in Ohio veterans' hospitals.

RESEARCH HELPS

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wartime research on fluorine is expected to lead to improved plastics, insecticides, fungicides, fumigants, germicides, fire-proofing materials, and other products, according to the American Chemical Society.

Crestline K. of P. Holds Degree Meet

CRESTLINE—A special meeting of the Crestline lodge of the Knights of Pythias was held last nikht. The rank of Knight was conferred on 11 candidates.

Earlier this week, 21 members of the Crestline lodge attended the auto league meeting at Caledonia and assisted in conferring the rank of Knight.

Winchell On Broadway

THE BROADWAY EXPRESS

WINCHELLEBRITIES — Mrs. George Washington Kavanaugh (the walking mint) dining in style at the Singapore with her pair of diamond-studded chopstix. . . . Ray Bolger (slimmer than Thinata) fighting the wind near his hit, "3 to Make Ready." . . . Estelita, the Embassy Clubeaut, featuring earrings—one of which is gold-lettered "Yes"—the other "Nope." . . . Jose Ferrer—actor-director-producer. Best known for his decency to hopeful young newcomers. . . . Members of "The Shoe Fits" show—determined to stick it out—considering out-of-town reviewers liked it. . . . Lina Basquette (busy on her novel), who will seek to divorce her longtime estranged groom, Mollison. . . . Eddie Walker (the fight mgr) standing "Late Watch" for Damon Runyon's big gang at Memorial hospital. Damon's final instructions (in writing) stressed "no services, no fuss, get it over with!"

* * *

Sallies in Our Alley: A Broadway lad was groaning about the rising cost of good hooch. . . . "What're your kickin' about?" sarcasm'd a Republicon-man. "We'd be overpaying just as much if Roosevelt were alive." . . . "I know," sighed the other, "but if FDR were alive—it'd be worth it!" . . . Vince Curran claims the way Leo Durocher's going—Leo the Wolf is becoming just as famous out in H'wood as Leo the Lion. . . . Evelyn Knight heard two stews admiring the sunrise. . . . "Shay," shay'd the firsht, "ishn't that wunnerful?" . . . "Yeah," hiccupped the other drunk, "Biggesh moon I ever shaw!"

* * *

Midtown Vignette: They told us they brought it from Hollywood, where a swank spot solved the matter of "who pays the check?" . . . This little gadget discourages arguments and it is fun, besides. . . . It is a souvenir bottle opener. . . . In the form of a miniature hand. . . . The index finger is pointed. When the check is presented—you put the thing on the table and spin it. . . . And the person to whom the finger pernts —pays.

Memoes of a Midnighter: When songstress Patti Clayton (a rabid Dodger fan) heard about Manager Durocher's new inspiration (Loraine Day), Patti asked only one question: "Can she pitch?" . . . Has Rosalind Russell a story? . . . Dolores Del Rio and Tito Juncho (a Mex film star) are the latest Mexicollaboration. . . . Is that loud arguing backstage between Fred March and Ruth Gordon over billing? You mean even when they've been in the lights for decades they still take billing that seriously? . . . Why doesn't Margaret Truman do something about that plastic surgeon who permitted the nose story to get into print by being coy over the phone and threatening to deny it "if you print it!" Cute little trick, him. . . . This doesn't refer to Dr. Gregory Pollock of Park Avenue, who has proposed to Marcia Matson. She's Lizabeth Scott's sister. . . . Bud Taylor (Sheraton Lounge organist) and radioriole Diane Courtney are building very special romansions. . . . Julie Gibson will elope to Las Vegas with Mike Shore.

New York Story: In 1941 Broadway welcomed a new "sucker." . . . A Texas oilman. . . . He was 65 years young—full of wim, wigor, witality and woo-woo. . . . In a year and a half he squandered over $400,000 backing flops that had more turkey in them than you often find in some costly Broadway sandwiches. . . . Anyhow, he was enjoying himself—having the time of his life. . . . He was very different from most "angles" who back shows. . . . The money was his. . . . He didnt promote it with big talk. . . . He was not a tout or bookie who invaded Broadway to "take" chumps by staging one flop after the other. . . . This man was Big Time. . . . Not a nickel belonged to anyone but B. S. Which are his initials. . . . He just loved being around show folks —to help them get along. . . . Well, here comes the punch line. . . . One of the show gals he befriended got serious and married him. . . . And they stay home most of the time counting his rich and wise investments, instead of empty champagne bottles.

LAUDS YAMS

BATON ROUGE, La. — (INS) — The Louisiana Agricultural Extension Service has launched a campaign to educate housewives to the nutritional value of the sweet potato—or yam. The sweet potato contains elements of vitamin A, B, C, small quantities of minerals, starch and sugar. The service points out they are good baked, boiled, mashed, hash-browned or in sweet potato puff, pudding and pie.

Pegler Fair Enough

NEW YORK—Tom Clark, the United States attorney general, has invited sports writers from all sections of the country to meet in Washington and form a national organization to encourage "millions of American youngsters" to take more interest in clean sports and other recreational activities.

My colleague, Bill Corum, announces his intention to be there and his personal conviction that "the world of sports has a golden opportunity here, not to say a challenge."

Mr. Clark's invitation relates that this idea emerged from a recent national conference on the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency and Bill Corum writes that "any impetus that sports is able to give the movement would be the most important crown that it could mould for itself."

I am a little skeptical as to the possibilities, believing that the strange, hard little chippies that I see hanging around the Waldorf when certain crooners and moaners are performing in the Wedgwood room, and certain notorious Hollywood characters are in residence in the tower, would be indifferent to any appeal from the most eloquent sports writer that ever lived, and that the fault lies not with these ominous young guttersnipes but with the parents who let them run wild. They are a cult, and a national cult at that. Some of the demonstrations of mass hysteria which they have presented here on high-pressure Hollywood occasions deliberately engineered by moving picture promoters have had about them a psychological reminder of the children's crusade.

* * *

I HAVE BEEN watching children's fads for fifty years, including the affectation of silly hats, droopy socks and idiotic mottos painted on flivvers, but this country, in my time, never saw anything quite like this bobby-sox and swing-music mania. They seem to go absolutely crazy over a voice or the squeals that some outwardly ingratiating but secretly motivated musican evokes from a clarinet or a horn. They run in packs like those strange, mad rats in Norway twenty years ago which were described as racing wildly across country and plunging off a cliff into the sea. They are insensate. God only knows what they are after, and a bellman at the Waldorf, looking at a bunch of them loitering in the dark the other evening, said "Look at them! Every time some Hollywood bum moves in they seem to smell it and they hang around all night—for what? Autographs, yes, but still they hang around. Well, mine isn't there. She is home."

Now I don't know what the sports writers could do about that, but one thing they could do is to draw a line again between sportsmen and the trash called sports, and between the underworld. That line has been obliterated by writers who should have maintained it.

The movies and radio now are hand-in-glove. Radio plugs the movies, and many Hollywood actors and many of the night-club and underworld trash of the movie industry take turns on the air.

It happens that the same juveniles who read sports, if juveniles still do read sports, read at least as eagerly the radio and movie features and are getting a diet of "glamor" and scandal presented in a way that makes licentiousness seem attractive. Not since the Fatty Arbuckle case has any Hollywood reporter broken an initiative news story, although, in the meantime, Hollywood, and this includes radio as well as movie entertainment, has developed an underworld of its own as evil as any other that we have ever had. People who are paid to be reporters and are rated as "experts" become or aspire to become "celebrities" themselves and succeed, at best, in their journalistic line, in becoming press-agents.

Woman, Aged 96, Paints Own House

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Adeline Jenkins, 96-year-old emancipated slave, has just finished painting her house. She did the entire job except for the 'real high places," where she had the help of a boarder.

A few years ago, Mrs. Jenkins dug a basement under her home. "I did the digging, but somebody else had to lay the bricks," she said.

HEAVY DOUGH

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y.—(U.P.)—After saving $1,000 worth of half-dollar coins for the second time in his life, Bert Barker has decided to give up the hobby. It took him six years to accumulate the 60 pounds of wealth during his second savings campaign.

Othman On Anything

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Senator Theodore G. Bilbo couldn't rouse a rabble if he wanted: he lispths.

This is embarrasing to the man. So sore is his mouth from an operation a while back that he can't wear his lower plate. He can only mutter to his lawyer, who functions as his mouth piece in the senate's caucus room.

All is not magnolia blossoms and soft breezes in Mississippi. That much the special war investigating committee has learned so far in its inquiry into $25,000,000 worth of army air fields built by the man's constituents. There also seems to be a slight case of incipient murder involved, though nobody seems to be taking this seriously except possibly the gent who fears his days are numbered.

These apparently unrelated subjects I'll try to drop in their proper niches as we go along. The man was an object of sartorial splendor in red, white and blue necktie, diamond horseshoe stick pin, red kerchief and brown suit when he walked in. He ruined the suave effect only when Senator James M. Mead of New York, chairman of the investigators, remarked it was a nice morning.

"Yeth," the gentleman from Mississippi agreed. Then he subsided in his chair, directly behind his lawyer, as though they were riding a tandem bicycle. As the day progressed, Sen. Bilbo poked his attorney with increasing frequency in the back, and lispthed suggestions for the defense.

An assortment of army officers, some in mufti and spats and some in official brass, told about the three air fields built in Mississippi by Bilbo's friends. The evidence indicated that the man took his pals to see the generals, that he bombarded the undersecretary of war with letters and telegrams, and that he got them what they wanted.

* * *

THE CHARGES are that they kicked back a little something to the man, such as a $25,000 check, a limousine, and dream house number two on an island they built on a lake at his pecan plantation The committee will get to these later.

The generals agreed that they sought valiantly to keep Bilbo off their necks. They let his friends build the air fields and they tried in vain to check charges that the foremen were forcing their laborers to kick back $2 fees to keep their jobs.

"They were cheating each other," testified Douglas I. McKay, then assistant to the chief of army engineers, "but we could find no evidence they were cheating the government."

Detailing the cheating and telling about how much each field cost took most of the day. The sun was sinking when Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan called for the testimony of Edward Terry, who used to be Sen. Bilbo's clerk when the man was unofficial mayor of Washington. Terry wasn't on tap.

Turned out that he was scared. The committee lawyers said they had G-men looking for him now, but that he had reported his life had been threatened if he testified. A couple of weeks later, he wrote, a mysterious phone voice also offered to do away with his wife and daughter. He disappeared.

Bilbo nudged his mouthpiece, Attorney Forrest Jackson of Jackson, Miss., who smiled fenially and informed the senators that this was mere Mississippi politics. He said the man joined the senate in demanding Terry's appearance.

"Yeth," Sen. Bilbo said. More tomorrow. Much more, I'm afraid.

AIR MAIL GROWS

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Gael Sullivan, 2nd assistant postmaster general, has predicted air mail volume will reach 150,000 pounds a year starting in 1948, with one-third of all non-local first class letters traveling by air. Today, he said, we have 700 commercial planes carrying mail and by 1948 we will need 3,000.

K. OF C. TO HEAR REV. JOHN VOGEL

Rev. John Vogel, diocesan director of the Apostolate of Catholic Evidence, will speak at a dinner meeting of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus Monday at 6:30 p. m., at the Southern hotel.

Rev. Vogel directs the home missionary movement of the church for the diocese of Toledo. Also in attendance will be Richard B. McQuade, master of the Northwest district, Fourth Degree K. of C.

Santa to Visit Lions' Club Party

Old Santa Claus has a special date with Lions' club members' children tonight at the club's family Christmas party at 8 p. m. in Grotto hall.

Clarence Bemiller, who "negotiated" Santa's visit, said that other entertainment is planned for the amusement of Santa, children and adults. Movies, music by Eugene Smart pupils and dances arranged by the Marguerite Speas dancing studio will round out an evening of fun.

DEATH SHIP JUNKED

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The USS Wilmette, formerly the steamer Eastland, which capsized in the Chicago River 31 years ago with a loss of 812 lievs, has been sold for junk.

GI Beer Bottles Saved For Babies

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The American Red Cross reports that its recreation workers in occupied Germany have a new job—collecting GI beer bottles for use as nursing bottles for babies of displaced persons.

There is an acute shortage of baby bottles and the beer bottles are the only ones on which the supply of German rubber nipples will fit. Red Cross recreation centers do not permit beer on the premises, but bins are being put up, asking soldiers to deposit their empty bottles from the post exchanges.

The southern tip of Africa was rounded by a Portuguese explorer five years before Columbus discovered America.

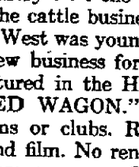
"Plan your work and Work your plan"

Long winter evenings bring families together after chores are done. Then there's time for serious talks and good fun. In December there's opportunity, too, to review the results of the past year's work . . . to make plans that can be carried out efficiently in the year that lies ahead.

Proper planning uncovers new opportunities in any business. With experience, know-how, and plain "horse sense" to draw on, plan-making should not be difficult. You think back with pleasure on your good crops . . . on how well your livestock or poultry programs turned out. You remember little things that made them profitable, or caused a loss. With this in mind, you look ahead and decide on next year's crops and rotations. You think of ways to improve your livestock operations. You make provision for the purchase of breeding stock, seed, machinery, fencing and equipment. You consider your problems from all angles. That's the way a sound plan is made. Then you set your course and stick to it.

What's true of the individual farm or ranch is true of any business, small or large. We at Swift & Company well know that we, too, must plan our work and work our plan. Our business interests are many and varied. Without a plan and good business records, we would be almost certain to run into serious losses because our profit margin is small. But by planning carefully, diversifying and working efficiently, we—like you—hope to increase our earnings in the future.



A DOLLAR SAVED IS A DOLLAR EARNED

This true old saying has been an important guide in the business philosophy of Swift & Company right from the beginning of our history. And it always will be, because that is the only way anyone can make money in the meat packing business.

In no other business that I know of is there such a narrow margin of possible profit. In the purchase of livestock, for instance, our buyers compete with buyers representing 3,500 meat packing plants and 22,500 other commercial slaughterers. Then, we sell our products in competition with the same 26,000 slaughterers with whom we compete when purchasing the livestock. Because of this constant competitive pressure from both sides, our profit margins are very narrow.

Thus, to make money we have to save money. Yes—we, too, have to "plan our work and work our plan." That's why we are forever checking our operations to increase efficiency . . . to eliminate waste . . . to do our job better. That job is to process and distribute more than six and one-half billion pounds of meats and other products each year. Only on such a volume of business can tiny savings per pound add up to the profit which keeps us in business.

TAKE TIME TO SAVE TIME
by L. S. Hardin, Purdue University

There is a labor-saving or labor-wasting way to do every farm job. Because we use too many old, hard ways, we waste 15 to 25 percent of our time. Greater attention to how we do our jobs can save time and work.

Ways of doing livestock work easier, faster and better are especially needed. Most farmers still use almost as much work to make 100 pounds of pork, beef or milk as they did 25 years ago. Yet, thanks mostly to machinery, we have reduced crop work one-fourth to one-half during the last 25 years.

Alert farmers are simplifying farm jobs, cutting chore time 15 to 50 percent. Five Indiana farmers, by carefully planning their work, are raising market hogs with one-quarter the average hours of labor. A Minnesota farmer rearranged his barn, adopted correct milking practices, saved 300 hours of work and 138 miles of walking a year. By rearranging his watering system, a poultry man saved 22 miles of walking a season Some farmers are making hay in 90 man-minutes per ton. Others, using similar equipment but harder ways of working, spend twice the time.

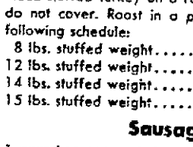
What these farmers are doing, others can do, too. Know just what you want to accomplish. Figure out how to do a job the easiest, cheapest and best way. Cut out those unnecessary steps, combine jobs, rearrange barns and lots, work out more convenient chore routes, keep equipment busy, choose new equipment that suits your farm. Give new practices a fair trial.

You'll find the easy way is the best way. Small improvements add up to days and dollars saved. Five minutes wasted a day equals 3 days a year: 5 steps a day amounts to a mile a year. With costs rising and profit margins due to shrink, we can well afford to take time to save time.

Soda Bill Sez:

. . . worriers die young; thinkers live long.
. . . a brain is no stronger than its weakest think.

Things are NOT always as they seem



Which is the longer—the top line of the top figure, or the bottom line of the bottom figure? Well—measure them and see!

Similarly, in the livestock-meat industry, conclusions based on a quick glance at a situation are not always so. A case in point is the "spread" between prices paid for livestock and the price received by the meat packer for the meat. The fact is that this spread is narrow. Out of every dollar Swift gets from the sale of its products, 75 cents, on the average, is returned to producers.

Can you name another business that returns such a high percentage of its sales dollar to producers of raw materials? Can you name any other business that performs so many essential services with the twenty-five cents left from that sales dollar? The twenty-five cents pays all business costs. Livestock-buying expenses, slaughtering, refrigeration and processing. The cost of selling the meat and delivering it to thousands of markets all over America. Necessary supplies, such as salt, sugar, barrels, boxes, paper. Ever-present taxes, etc. After all these expenses are paid, Swift's share averages, over a period of years, less than 2¢ on each sales dollar This amounts to a fraction of a cent a pound of product handled.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

If at first you don't find just the gift you are looking for, look, look again.

Nice to have an occasional rainy day during the Christmas rush—it gives opportunity to get near enough the counter to buy something.

A look at the calendar confirms the surprising news that there are only nine more shopping days before Christmas—what's that you said about intending to shop early?

Wages and Prices Climb Together

PRESUMPTION of intention by CIO spokesmen that further substantial wage increases can be made without commensurate price rises, revives recollection of the same fallacy appearing in statements made by Henry Wallace a year or so ago.

Now it is Robert R. Nathan, reflecting the New Deal school of thought, who confidently asserts that "corporate business as a whole could grant 25 per cent wage increases without having to boost prices."

It is the "as a whole" part of the statement that arouses instant rebuttal, in the reason that a number of corporations, notably in the automotive industry, are closing the year "in the red," despite price increases which have already greatly reduced sales potentialities.

There may be an occasional exception to which Mr. Nathan's reference to "lush profits" properly applies—but this is less likely under peace-time conditions than during the wasteful spending of war-time when profiteering ran rampant in some lines of production and construction.

Many people seem to have an entirely wrong impression of the peace-time distribution of money that flows into what is called "industry." It appears that what is called "the average worker," including white-collar and technical men, believes the manufacturer makes 25 per cent on the volume of peace-time business, whereas a study reveals that the actual NET INCOME, for the 1927-43 period, was under three per cent of sales volume.

An exhaustive study of profits in the steel industry, for instance, has been made by Peter F. Drucker, well-known writer on corporate affairs, and his findings are illuminating. Belief has been expressed that wages in the steel industry could be substantially increased by cutting into the profit margin, but according to Mr. Drucker's analysis, profits are the smallest part of the steel dollar.

He calculates that in 1944, out of each $7,100 of product-value made by the steel worker, the worker himself got $3,038. More than $2,700 went for material costs, $350 for debt interest, $80 for depreciation, and $550 for taxes—which leaves only $85 as the profit earned.

Except for those who are concerned only with the narrow field of individual group gains, it must be apparent that there is no miraculous way of continuing to increase wages without raising prices. If all of an average industry's profits were divided among all of its employes the share of each would be inconsequential.

In such general application as is proposed by the CIO, wages can be increased only by raising the price of the product to the consumer or by increasing output per man-hour.

Under the first method, as has already been demonstrated, no one benefits, as pay increases are automatically absorbed by higher living costs. Under the second method, which is as yet largely untried, everyone would benefit and the national standard of living would rise. This should be more fully understood by all producing Americans before there is another concerted effort to force wage increases by work stoppages.

Mail Those Christmas Cards Soon

ACTUALLY, when you come to think of it, there's no real reason why the mailing of Christmas greetings—or gifts—should be delayed until a day or so before Christmas, as some folks are inclined to do.

Envelopes containing seasonal greetings are readily identifiable as such, and in any event, are usually laid aside for a Christmas lodger. And what would it matter, anyhow, if the pleasant thought expressed on Christmas cards should be read a week or two early?

Christmas mails are heavy, at the best, and when the hard work of clerks and carriers is added to by bundles of Christmas cards held up until the last minute, their task is made too ponderous for maintenance of prompt service.

According to Acting Postmaster Ford, "early mailing" is getting off to a slow start, and this mention is being made in the hope that readers of this column will be thus influenced to hurry along the job of getting their Christmas cards ready, affixing stamps, attaching a Christmas seal, and starting them on their way. The same applies to gift packages, which, it should be remembered, can be marked, "Do Not Open Until Christmas."

Mansfield's Progressive Barbers

COMMENT by Mansfield's veteran barber of 58 years service, Fred Hieron the contrast between barbershops of now and half a century ago brings up several interesting points.

Mansfield barbers have moved ahead in other things as well as price: they are now expected to understand the bone structure, muscles, nerve centers, circulatory system and skin and hair cells of the head, face and neck. They are required to know something of dermatology and pharmacology—in addition to knowing when and where to use the clippers, the razor and the shears.

Almost without exception Mansfield barbershops are not only sanitary and efficient but attractive as well. The old quartet may be missing but the conversation remains a delight to the connoisseur of uninhibited opinion.

Mansfield barbers take their jobs seriously. They are taking the story of their progress to the people in a program of institutional advertising that is being widely praised.

C. H. Hartman, state inspector, told them: "At the present time I do not know of any other group of barbers who are interested enough in their profession to have any kind of educational advertisements and I must say that Mansfield is pioneering the cause."

"There are many aspects of the collegiate program more important than a winning football team," is the belated conclusion of a university president—after a rather poor season.

It is noticed that Yuma, Ariz., is being avoided in the experimental manufacture of artificial snow.

More wars have been caused by human stupidity than by malicious intent.

WHY NOT ALL STRIKE AT ONE TIME?

Fear of Miners' Discontent Is Seen as Main Motive of Lewis

By RAYMOND MOLEY

"QUESTIONS as to the motive," said John L. Lewis in announcing a truce in the miner's strike "will be purely speculative." Lewis then reached into the crowded bag of his learning and added, "some philosopher has said the pursuit of motives is the most elusive task in the world."

Nevertheless, let's take a whack at it.

We all can quote from philosophers, and a good many of them say that motives are determined by studying the pattern of a man's whole life. The pattern of Lewis' leadership is to get all he can for miners by any possible means. He called the strike because he thought he could get more for the miners by a terrific surprise attack on the Truman administration at a moment when that politically-minded regime was on the eve of an election.

A week or ten days before November 1, the Truman regime knew—and this I know specifically—that it was going to lose congress. So it was decided to cast aside politics and meet Lewis head-on.

After five weeks, which included 17 days of idleness for the miners, a state of affairs was reached in which a protracted delay in adjudicating the case might be expected. Time was running out for the miners. They had, according to one estimate, lost on an average $682 in strikes in the current year. They stood to lose still more in pay. Also, considering the legal aspects of the case, there was a chance to lose more in fines.

At this point, no doubt, Lewis was engaged in a bit of philosophical speculation himself. How long could he keep his miners content, with Christmas coming and irrecoverable losses running?

The miners could do a little figuring themselves. They could anticipate getting some money back by working overtime to replenish stock piles. They might also get some new advantages from successful negotiation after a further hold out.

But they must have known that it would take a long, long time to make up for the losses in this strike. For it takes no economist to see that the coal not burned during the strike may never have to be replaced. A strike, like war, destroys wealth irretrievably.

All this was food for miners' thinking, and Lewis knows what miners think.

And so, because he cannot afford to lose the utter loyalty of his miners—a loyalty built on the money he has won for them in past years—Lewis gave in.

Put this down as motive number one.

Other motives are more speculative. It is hard to believe that Lewis feared public opinion. He has faced that before. He was not awed by majesty of government, for in his book government is men, ordinary men, whom he has outsmarted over and over. He might have had some doubts about the Supreme Court and consequently felt that the court would deal more lightly with him if there were no immediate crisis. That is a fair guess.

Lewis had personal things at stake, too. His ambitions extend far beyond his rule of the miners. He is back in the A. F. L. William Green is older than Lewis and is growing no younger. Lewis must want to head the A. F. L., in person or through a man of his own choosing. The repercussions of this strike are far-reaching. Workers in many industries have been losing pay, irretrievably.

And, finally, there is a political consequence which must be reckoned. Lewis is a Republican. He wants the Republican party to prevail. And he wants to be high in the good graces of that party.

With congressional anger rising, he was risking a political break with the new Republican leadership. He wants to beat other labor leaders to the bandwagon. The strike was in the way. That was not the least of the many reasons why he paid the price of a defeat which he still regards as temporary.

Contest In Budget-Cutting Developing.

WASHINGTON—The men around President Truman are nervously trying to anticipate the wishes and the whims of the incoming Republican congress. They are trying to do the kind of master-minding which will make it possible to avoid any violent clash with the new GOP house and senate.

That is behind the timid approach to the budget for the coming year which is now being put together.

Each department is coming in with its estimate of how much money it needs. And each department head is being told that he must cut and cut and cut again to meet the Republican economy drive.

This is considered good strategy by those in the White House who feel the president should demonstrate that he can get along with congress. Thus, it is argued by the master-minders, the president will take the wind out of the Republican sails. That was the strategy behind the dismissal of Wilson Wyatt as housing expediter.

But there are serious dangers in this strategy, as some bolder souls have pointed out. First is the very practical consideration that the Republicans are bound to do some cutting regardless of how much the Democrats have pared the candle-ends in their budget

If these cuts are made on top of the cutting already done, then the executive branch of the government may find itself seriously embarrassed for funds.

While department heads do some wishful padding when they go to the budget bureau with their estimates, they are presumably responsible men who are not interested in throwing money out the window. They know that they will be called up to Capitol Hill to defend their requests.

To tell these men that they must arbitrarily cut off so much here and so much there is dangerously short-sighted. If there is one thing the Truman administration can do in the next two years, it is to build up a record. It can stand up and be counted for what it believes to be right regardless of how unpopular those views may be with the GOP.

The president has frequently demonstrated that he can stand up to an unpopular decision when the issue is put up to him. The policy of "don't look now but there's that Republican congress" seems to originate with the master-minders rather than with Mr. Truman himself.

The budget bureau is insisting that the no-strike pledge be included in every appropriation bill. Some agencies that deal directly with large numbers of workers, such as the Panama Canal and the Inland Waterways Corporation, are bound to find this a handicap. It tends to provoke labor troubles where none existed before. But word has gone out from the White House that this must not be put in because the Republicans will expect it.

If the Democrats in the White House take on too much protective coloration, it will not be possible for the ordinary citizen to tell them from the Republicans.

That is not the way to preserve a healthy two-party system. If the two-party system is to mean anything, there should be real differences between the two labels.

Suppose that the gloomiest predictions of the leftists come true. A Republican administration after 1948 produces an old-fashioned Republican boom. That boom ends in a resounding smash. If the Democrats, as the opposition party, seem to be merely a Tweedledum to the Republican Tweedledee, with nothing to offer as a valid alternative, then we might be tempted to follow a quack or a man on horseback.

Teamsters' Boss Tobin Credited For Ending Oakland's Big Strike

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The man who deserves the real credit for calling off the general strike in Oakland, Calif., was FDR's old friend, forthright teamsters' union boss Dan Tobin. The newspapers gave the credit to Dave Beck, rough-tough labor czar of Seattle, but actually it was a stinging telegram from Tobin to Charles W. Real, president of Oakland local 70, which caused the end of the general strike.

Tobin, who had many unfair accusations hurled at him during the famous Statler hotel brawl here involving two naval officers in 1944, sent this blunt warning to Real, with a copy to Beck in Seattle and to teamsters' boss John P. McLaughlin in San Francisco:

"I have just been reading about a general strike of all of our people who have been joined by many other trade unionists in the city of Oakland and surrounding district.

"This is to notify you that the International Brotherhood of Teamsters is bitterly opposed to any general strike for any cause. I am therefore ordering you and all those associated with you who are members of our international union to bring this general strike to an end immediately and to return to work as soon as possible.

"If there are grievances, endeavor to obtain conferences and reach settlements in the regular, orderly, legal manner as outlined in the constitution of the international organization.

"No general strike has ever yet brought success to the labor movement. On the contrary, the only result of a general strike is to persecute and inconvenience the public and seriously injure the thousands of fair employers with whom we have contracts."

Tobin's telegram would have made headlines, if released. However, here is the inside story of what happened.

As soon as Dave Beck received Tobin's wire, he phoned Tobin, begging him not to release the telegram. Beck said that important conferences were in progress and the release of the telegram might injure the union in its negotiations. So Tobin agreed to wait until later in the day for the meeting to break up.

While Tobin was awaiting news from Beck, the radio blared out the news that the "great" Beck had called off the strike all by himself. Pictures showing Beck ending the strike were printed nationally. Meanwhile, it was Tobin's wire which did the trick. Beck even used some of the language from Tobin's telegram as his own in his statement to the press.

Christmas Sales Down.

The end of OPA has had some significant effects on the volume of Christmas buying this year, which so far is running behind last Christmas time.

Shopping crowds are as large as usual, but government figures indicate that the buying public is keeping its purse strings tightened. People just aren't buying as much, apparently because prices are too high.

Actually the dollar value of Christmas sales for October, November and December will be roughly $2,863,000,000, which is about 20 per cent greater than last year. But this apparent increase is due to higher prices, not more buying.

In terms of actual merchandise sold, this Christmas season is running behind last year, even though the quantity of consumer items available for sale were far less at that time. So cautious has the shopping public become that unsold inventories on department store shelves are now 237 per cent as compared with inventories in the pre-war 1935-39 period—or more than twice as much.

Top-heavy inventories are due in part to higher prices, following OPA decontrols, and in part to overstocking by merchandisers who wrongly estimated that the public would pay prohibitive prices for commodities that were scarce during the war years.

Biggest slackening-off has been in women's apparel, which normally constitutes 60 per cent of department store sales. However, all luxury items are affected. Some retailers have become so desperate that they are even conducting pre-Christmas sales of expensive furs.

On the other hand, consumer "durables," such as hardware, refrigerators and household appliances, are in great demand, while sales of children's toys, now in the luxury class, have dropped off.

Note—While the public is slow about buying goods, it has done well on its purchase of government bonds, which will total about $8,000,000,000 this year, or $2,000,000,000 more than treasury expectations.

The Missing Harrimans.

Averell Harriman, new secretary of commerce, got somewhat in wrong with his chief last week, and quite a bit in wrong with Mrs. Truman, when he failed to attend an official White House reception.

The president and Mrs. Truman were giving a gala reception for the press, and were reverting to the ornate peacetime formality which no one has seen much of around the White House since Pearl Harbor. This meant that at an appointed hour, the entire cabinet lines up behind the chief executive and the first lady and together they march down the grand stairway while the band plays "Hail to the Chief."

This grand march was scheduled for last week's reception. Only trouble was that the cabinet was so seriously depleted that not many were around to march. Secretary of the Treasury Snyder was in Mexico, Secretary of State Byrnes was in New York at the United Nations meeting, Postmaster General Hannegan was in Florida resting—all unavoidably away. But Secretary of Commerce Harriman and his lovely wife, who had been in Washington all that day, did not show up. Furthermore, what made the Trumans especially indignant was that he was found to be dining with New York Times bureau chief Arthur Krock. And to add insult to injury, Mr. Krock, a newsman who was expected to attend the White House reception for the press, himself spurned the Trumans.

Plans to Help New Businesses Stymied.

WASHINGTON — There was a time not so far back when, in looking forward to what we called "the brave new world"—now a phrase with a cynical meaning usually—some people envisaged the postwar use of huge plants built by the government to establish new peacetime industries and break up existing monopolies.

Henry Wallace was one of them Another was Walter Reuther, vice president of the Auto Workers' union, who worked out a plan to use the mammoth Willow Run plant, where the Ford company made bombers, to make household appliances and railroad equipment, by setting up a government corporation which would lease it to private industry.

More recently Wilson Wyatt, former housing expediter, wanted to use a Chicago war plant to build prefabricated houses for veterans, but this already was gobbled up by a company which is going to make automobiles, just as Henry J. Kaiser and Joseph W. Frazer are making automobiles at Willow Run.

The dream vanished—as did Wilson Wyatt. How quickly it was dissipated is shown by a survey prepared for the writer by the War Assets Administration.

A preponderant number of small war plants was sold or leased to companies outside of the 250 largest manufacturing corporation, which is all to the good. But most of the 46 plants costing the government more than $5 million that have been sold, and most of the 35 costing above that amount that have been leased, have gone to big corporations. Two were sold to states, California and Mississippi; one to Syracuse University, and a fourth to a civic group in Scranton, Pa.

Twenty-four of the 46 plants costing the government above $5 million were sold to companies that operated them during the war. Of the 35 that were leased, 15 went to corporations that had operated them during the war.

Twenty-one of the 46 plants that cost the government more than $5,000,000 sold for above $5 million. All of these were acquired by giant corporations.

The War Assets Administration explains that in most cases there was no bid for the bigger plants by a smaller concern. So these plants did not get into the hands of new enterprises, as was once anticipated by those who saw a chance to remake our economy and strike a blow at monopoly through disposition of these war plants built by the taxpayers' money.

There are some few encouraging factors. The monopoly of the Aluminum Company of America was broken by disposal of warbuilt aluminum plants by lease to others, notably the Kaiser and Reynolds interests, newcomers in the field. Likewise, there was some dispersal into other hands of segments of the nitrogen industry.

But other giant corporations only got bigger and enlarged their hold on their line of industry.

General Electric corporation for example, got 14 additional plants out of the war, a dozen by purchase and two by lease, though in the smaller category. Bethlehem Steel got six; General Motors, four; International Harvester, five; Allied Chemical and Dye, two.

United States Steel got the lion's share as far as total value went, paying $320,800,000 for four plants—nothing like their original cost to the government.

All of this explains the renewed interest in looking again into the intensification of monopoly during the war. This subject will be projected into the new congress by a number of members, including Senators O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) and Morse (R., Ore.).

Farmer's Diary: "Quotes From Odd Corners."

IT INTERESTED me to read in the last bulletin of the Lake Carriers' Association that a lighthouse built by Jefferson Davis, Confederate Civil war president, still stands on Presque Isle in Lake Huron, and is now used as a haven for wounded veterans of World War II.

F. B. Stebbins, a Lansing business man, recently took over the island. He refinished the interior of the old lighthouse—walls three feet thick, hand-hewn stone steps—with heavy timbers from a vessel wrecked nearby in 1888. He built five bedrooms within the tower and complete kitchen and bath facilities—also installed an oil heater with a thermostat and a sky parlor on top, for sun bathing.

According to Mr. Stebbins, the wounded demoralized boys make great progress here in this wooded retreat, where they have full run of the once busy harbor. Another more modern light now guards the deeper channel which passes a half mile away, around a bend.

Careless Smokers.

The new city ordinance banning smoking in stores, factories and other business establishments where combustible materials increase the fire hazard is only common sense. Not even the most confirmed pipe, cigaret or cigar smoker has the right to endanger lives and property to satisfy a personal pleasure.

Council's action is particularly opportune and necessary during the holiday shopping rush. Shopper-jammed stores, Christmas decorations and carelessness add up to possible tragedies that could make Christmas most unhappy.

Smokers are not always careful. Burned holes in a pipe smoker's clothing, scars of forgotten cigarets on table tops and minor blazes caused by matches are all proof of carelessness. — Akron Beacon Journal.

GRAND JURY INDICTMENTS were to be sought by Attorney General Eugene Cook of Georgia against the Columbians, Inc., anti-Negro, anti-Jewish group, on the basis of confessions that the group was plotting to overthrow the government. The information was brought out by a glamorous blond, who persuaded two members to turn state's evidence. Brooklyn Blonde Steals Deep, Dark Secrets of Columbians

ATLANTA, Ga.—(INS)—A glamorous blond from Brooklyn who uncovered damaging evidence against the Columbians, Inc., while posing as a secretary for the alleged Nazi-like organization returned to New York today.

She is Miss Renee Forrest, 24-year-old investigator for the anti-Nazi League, New York.

For a week Miss Forrest worked for Columbians, Inc., filching files and photographing documents containing many of the "hate-group's" innermost secrets.

Her discoveries are expected to play a prominent part in any prosecution of Columbian, Inc.

* * *

MISS FORREST TOLD POLICE she gained admission to the group by posing as a devoted worker for the native Nazi program" and having done similar work in the north. She credited a co-investigator for getting her the job. She said:

"I photographed anything that was lying around with a camera concealed in a cigaret lighter. I also managed to get documents from the file for my co-workers to photograph."

The young investigator said she favored leniency for James Ralph Chilers and Lanier, youthful members of Columbians, Inc., who renounced their membership and charged the group with "aiming to get control of the United States government."

Miss Forrest said she became interested in fighting intolerance while a student at Brooklyn's Erasmus Hall high school.

Although she had received no threatening notes or telephone calls, Miss Forrest told police that the Columbians "are shadowing me." She said she'll be glad to get back to New York.

A book salesman imbibed a couple too many at a literary cocktail party in the Times Square area. He engaged in a long discussion about women with an editor, and when the party was over, left with his friend to settle the question once and for all.

The next thing he remembers, a conductor was crying, "Next stop, Philadelphia." The salesman put down his Scotch and soda on the table and clapped a hand to his head. "Philadelphia!" he marveled. "Good grief, I thought this was a lunch wagon."

Scroll In Friendly House Will Carry Donors' Names

One hundred years from now and maybe longer, Mansfielders, yet unborn, may read the names of those of the city's citizens who contribute to the $60,000 Friendly House campaign that begins Monday.

Names of all donors to the $235,000 new settlement house will be written on a scroll for placement in the corner stone of the proposed building, Coleman Todd, publicity chairman for the drive, said today.

The corner stone recognition will carry out the theme of the long-range program "Operation Tomorrow" planned by the Richland Foundation as a civic and social improvement plan for local youth agencies. The foundation will represent the Mansfield manufacturers who will contribute 70 per cent of the building cost of the new Friendly House.

* * *

HEADING THE DRIVE FOR the agency's share of the cost is Paul Endriss, assisted by Dean Dickerson as vice chairman. Campaign headquarters will open Monday in the R. E. Moorhead garage on Park avenue west and remain open until Jan. 15 when the drive is planned to close.

The campaign will reach out to Mansfielders in factories, in offices and even in their homes. Solicitation will be conducted as "inside" drives in industries. Gifts to the campaign may be mailed to the headquarters if desired.

The new settlement house, laid out to accommodate a membership of from 1,000 to 1,500 will be situated on three lots facing North Mulberry street, between Aten Way and Vale avenue, near the geographic center of Friendly House activity. The lots have been donated as a memorial to Lt. Jacob Sternbaum, killed in World War II by his father, Carl Sternbaum, 165 Vale avenue.

Counting Is Fun For Small Child

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

MANY children entering the first grade do not know the meaning of five, eight or ten, even though they might be able to "count" glibly to a hundred. A few children in the second grade do not

It is hard to imagine how any youngster of normal intelligence, in a home where all his questions have been answered kindly and where he has been encouraged to converse, can escape interest in counting objects for fun.

If your child at the age of four or five does not evince interest in numbers and in counting up to five, it would be well to stimulate this interest at his play. A good way is to count, nonchalantly, a few objects he is playing with, or to have him hand you two of such objects, say.

The trouble is that many parents will make it a task for the youngster They will urge him to count when he is tired of doing so They will merely have him say the number-words after them up to ten, even to a hundred Little or no value in this procedure.

Often it is harmful It were better to induce the child to practice at counting, for example, four clothespins, four blocks, four potatoes, four pebbles, than to have him dwell on counting out as many of each object-group as he can.

Many kindergarten teachers, even some first grade teachers, will avoid having children practice at learning easy number concepts As if it might harm them to do so! But, counting a few objects at home or school can be useful fun for the young child I wish teachers would employ great variety, having a child call three other children to stand in a group, say; assemble three blocks make three marks on the blackboard, tap three times, and so on

At home or school, we would help the child avoid confusion if we induced him to dwell for some while on one simple number like five as applied to ever so many different types of objects rather than to have him go from one number to another quickly Simplicity and novelty should be our watchwords

Plans for Anniversary, Card Tournament Made

Mrs. Thomas Creamer conducted the meeting of the Joan of Arc circle, Daughters of Isabella, Tuesday night. It was announced that a committee of the circle officers will plan the 27th anniversary celebration of the organization which is Jan. 1. Safety Tips for the Holidays

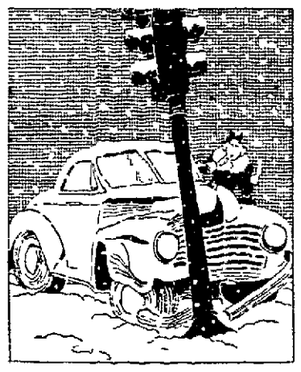
Careful of those little lights—Electricity sometimes bites.

Don't teek on a pile of books; A broken leg would spoil your looks.

Clean your walks of snow and ice; Killing visitors isn't nice.

Nailing Christmas decorations Is a hazardous occupation.



Driving in a one-hoss sleigh Was safer than the modern way.

CENTENARY CLASS.

Household Hints

In Colonial Virginia ten pounds of tobacco were offered for every good wool or fur felt hat turned out locally

Three people in four (74 percent) buy at least one gift between Christmases.

Movie star Alexis Smith uses a small amount of salt mixed with her cleaning cream whenever she finds that her skin is becoming the least bit dry or flaky She says this formula removes all of the flakiness and leaves her skin bright and smooth

Deaths of pedestrians as a result of motor vehicle accidents are most numerous just after sunset.

Komotine and Xanthe are the largest inland cities in western Thrace

CRESTLINE POST TO ASSIST VETS

CRESTLINE — The McWhirter post, American Legion, has laid plans to send Christmas gifts to GI's confined in Veterans hospitals throughout the country, Comdr. Robert Miller announced yesterday.

At a meeting of the post recently, members approved a plan to co-operate with the Legion auxiliary to pack gifts to be forwarded for distribution

Members also approved a motion to lay plans for a Legion "Santa Claus" to visit homes of the needy in Crestline to give gifts to children.

Comdr. Miller made a report on the Commanders and Adjutants conference held in Columbus last week He pointed out that posts throughout the nation have laid plans to furnish gifts to veterans in need.

Crowds Throng Scene.

Mansfield police and firemen aided in the rescue work and pressed into service many of the spectators who visited the wreck. Roads, by mid-morning, were blocked by on-lookers' autos for miles around.

Among the volunteers were Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow, Fire Chief L. J. Steele, and Clarence G. Tugend, superintendent of the state highway department's county maintenance station.

The city building telephone switchboard was put into operation at 5 a. m. to handle any emergency calls for municipal services but Miss Jean Kelly, receptionist, said she had surprisingly few calls.

Pvt. Robert Radtke, of Hustisford, Wis., was one of the first servicemen to crawl free of the smashed cars.

"The force of the crash knocked me to the floor. I was asleep at the time and when I woke up I was on the floor. Duffle bags were flying about my head. There was a lot of yelling and steam was hissing," he said.

* * *

Car Caved In.

The car in which Radtke was riding crashed into a freight car and its front end was smashed in. "When I got my bearings I crawled through a hole in the side of a car and another soldier and I went for help.

"Our first impulse was to get as far away from there as possible. I was scared; everybody was scared. But we finally made our way to a nearby building and told a man there to call for help."

Wrecking trains from Crestline, Canton, Toledo, and New Castle and Conway, Pa., were dispatched to the scene of the tragedy immediately. The one from Crestline arrived at 4:45 a. m., but its work was held up for nearly two hours while the dead and injured were being removed.

Open Tracks Tonight.

Rail officials said traffic on the eastbound (or south) track should be open to traffic by 4 p. m. and on the west bound (north) by 10 p. m. today. Meanwhile, trains were detoured over the B. and O. tracks through Willard and over the Pennsylvania's own lines through Columbus.

Mansfield firemen who helped remove still living soldiers from the wreck said one man was hanging head down, pinned to a section of the car only by his feet. He had to be cut down before blood plasma could be administered.

One soldier was wedged between the side of the car and the ceiling. He was alive, but it took four hours to cut him free, firemen reported.

Several other servicemen were killed when they were jammed against the ceiling of the forward end of the smashed and twisted car, firemen said.

Rail officials said that a special train, dispatched from Crestline, transported some 70 uninjured passengers to Chicago immediately after the wreck. They said there were no accurate figures on the number of passengers riding the "Golden Triangle."

Joint Musical Event Staged At Simpson

Schoolboy patrol members were guests of the John Simpson PTA and the school's Music Booster club when the two organizations gave a joint musical program at the school last night.

The program was presented by the seventh and eighth grade boys and girls' glee club, the eighth grade girls' ensemble and Frank Daniels in a solo. These groups were directed by Miss Fanny Lou Iler.

A Christmas comedy, "The Tree" followed the musical numbers and was directed by Miss Louise Lynch. Members of the cast included pupils of dramatics class No. 9. Betty Wilson acted as prompter.

Announced during the evening was the "Snowflake Hop" sponsored by the Music Booster club and to be held tonight in the school gymnasium.

COUNTY VETS PICK NOMINEES

Nominations of candidates for elections to office in January, and discussion of plans for a living war memorial dedicated to veterans of all wars led the agenda at last night's meeting of the Joint Veterans Commission of Richland county.

President pro-tem M. A. Fulkerson and Dr. N. C. McNeil, American Legion post No. 72, were nominated as presidential candidates. Carl Kahl and Walter Rusk, both members of VFW, received the vice presidential nominations. Sam Davis, Legion post 72, and C. O. Lister, 37th division, were chosen to run for second vice president, and D. Buell Legion post 16, Don Finefrock, Amvets, and Charles Prosser, DAV, for secretary-treasurer.

Battery D, 140th Field Artillery battalion association made application and was accepted for membership on the commission.

Attending last night's meeting were representatives of American Legion, posts 16 and 72, VFW, AVC, DAV, Amvets and the 37th division. Next meeting of the commission is scheduled for Jan. 9 at the VFW rooms in the Memorial hall with Amvets as hosts.

2 Inmates Escape From OSR Farm

Mansfield reformatory officials reported today that two inmates fled the OSR farm around 6 p. m. yesterday.

They were identified by Supt. Arthur L. Glattke as George Sharp, 24, sentenced from Marion county in June to a one to 20-year term for auto larceny, and James Brown, 23, sentenced from Belmont county in April to a one to 15-year term for burglary.

Tenement Fire Toll Mounts to 20

2 Boys in Neighborhood Gang Face Arson Charge.

NEW YORK —(UP)— Hundreds of weary firemen dug relentlessly today into the rain-sodden ruins of an uptown tenement for additional victims of one of New York's worst disasters as authorities questioned two dead end kids who said they started "one hell of a fire."

While the rescue work went on in a cold rain under the white glare of searchlights police listed 20 known dead, more than 40 injured and 16 missing and presumed dead.

The rescuers still had a mountainous heap of debris caused by a collapsing wall of a burning, abandoned ice house which crashed in an avalanche of wood, brick and mortar and sheared the adjoining tenement in half, burying dozens of sleeping victims beneath it.

Rescue Work Difficult.

Since the building crumpled on the 95 residents of the 22-family house early yesterday, rescuers had been painstakingly, slowly, removing the debris with their hands so as not to jar any further masses of brick on any of the victims below.

Until late yesterday the rescuers could hear the gradually weakening cries for help from men, women and children still alive in the ruins. But by early today no further sounds were heard and Fire Captain Timothy P. Guinne said he believed all those trapped had perished.

Meanwhile, Joseph McCabe, 13, and Joseph Elio, 10, members of a slum neighborhood gang which often had started fires in the six-story ice house "just for the fun of it" were scheduled to appear in children's court today on an arson charge.

Capt. Thomas V. Hannigan said four boys admitted they got into the ice house by climbing to the roof of the blasted tenement and dropping to the roof of the adjoining building. They broke into a room immediately under the roof where detectives found paper, wood, matches and candles. Hannigan said the boys left the building the same way after their ring leader remarked, "This ought to make one hell of a fire."

Boys Brag Over Deed.

As they fled, with fire engines already drawing up in front of the building, they bragged to other neighborhood kids, "we did that." Then they took a street car to their home on West 178th street, six blocks away.

Chief Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy identified the boys as McCabe, Elio, Thomas Lyons and William Dahdah. Lyons and Dahdah, both 11, were released in their parents' custody and ordered to appear today as material witnesses.

TRAIN CRASH AWAKENS FARM FAMILIES IN NIGHT

By MARGUERITE MILLER

In the eerie light of pre-dawn, scores of farm families milled about the scene of the Pennsylvania train wreck today.

Most of the injured already had been removed to hospitals, but the folks who had dressed quickly and hurried to the scene to give what aid they could told of the tragedy.

One of them was Mrs. Harold Fox. She was among the first to reach the scene of the wreck.

"It was terrible! You could hear them calling for help from inside the coaches. Some were screaming. Others moaned. One person called out, 'I'm dying'," she related.

"It must have been around 2:15 when I heard the first crash. Then there was a big flash of light that lit up the bedroom. It was only a matter of seconds and the second crash came. Then there was an explosion."

* * *

MRS. FOX, WHO LIVES JUST above Coulter, Pennsylvania telegraph station, 10 miles south of Mansfield, was one of the first to help administer first aid to the injured.

Another early-arriver was Mrs. T. J. Miller, who resides directly across the tracks at the station.

"Mrs. Fox and I were among the first of the neighbors out here," she said. "We set up our headquarters here in the Ohio Oil company's pumping station and tried to help as much as we could.

"Most of the people we saw were soldiers who said they were on their way home for Christmas before going overseas. One boy said he had obtained special leave to attend his father's funeral tomorrow in Chicago."

* * *

BOTH WOMEN SAID NONE of the passengers to whom they administered were seriously injured.

"Most of them were shaken up," Mrs. Fox said. "A few had minor scratches. Only two of probably 20 or 30 were burned with the scalding water from the exploded boiler."

PICKER PICKS HIM

CLINTON, Ia. —(UP)— Donald Rawson, 35, lost all his clothes when caught in a corn picker, but emerged alive. Rawson managed to walk a mile to his car and drive for first-aid treatment.

SCORES RUSH TO AID VICTIMS

Scores of persons from the Lucas and Mansfield vicinities welded themselves into a super-efficient rescue squad for the predawn crack-up of two Pennsylvania freight trains and one passenger train at Coulter.

Reported as first to arrive at the scene was Dean Byerly, Lucas undertaker, who took a "short cut across fields" to the railroad's telegraph station, six miles south of Lucas.

Within a few minutes after the wreck, Mrs. Lillian Mitchell, Lucas telephone operator, was on the job, calling ambulances and doctors and putting through calls. Welders Clayton Heinberger of Lucas and Garr Beathler of Perrysville started their torches to cut the trapped free of the twisted wreckage.

Adjutant R. L. Gutterman of the Mansfield Volunteers of America and local Red Cross volunteers set up a coffee stand in the Ohio Oil company's pumping station, used for emergency relief.

The Mansfield Moose lodge blood bank was made available to hospitals where victims were taken for treatment. Plasma was administered to the seriously injured by doctors and nurses who rushed from Mansfield, Lucas and other surrounding towns.

The Mansfield chapter of Disabled American Veterans stood by today to assist any member of the military on the train, stranded by the accident.

LIBRARY GETS BIG SELECTION OF NEW BOOKS

Reading For Many Tastes in Literature Offered in Latest Releases.

A diversity of color and mood in reading entertainment awaits readers with the release of the new fiction and non-fiction Saturday at the Mansfield Public library. The books will be placed in circulation Monday.

BEYOND THE GARDEN GATE, by Keith Winther, is a modern novel about a likeable and normal college boy. After becoming involved with a simple farm girl, he falls in love with an attractive intelligent girl from his own world. A set of unhappy circumstances leads to tragedy of the childlike Nancy and a scandlemonger causes Forrest's arrest. The setting is in Oregon.

I, TOO, NICODEMUS is a semi-fictional account of fascinating court cases that have passed before Judge Curtis Bok, the author. These are humane and sympathetic stories in which the judge recreates real scenes with fictitious characters and illumines them with his wise reflections on the world in which we live.

* * *

THREE BLOSSOMS OF CHANG-AN, by Keith West, is a Chinese story. Three scrolls, found in the coffin of a young man centuries after his death, contain the graceful story of Lien'KinWai and his three loves. The first was Hibiscue, demure young widow; the second, Jasmin, pretty, stupid young girl; and third is Peony, a strange woman who loves him. Through deft, amusing conversation and provocative situations, the author follows his hero's joys and sorrows.

Other fiction includes: VINLAND THE GOOD, Norway; SAIGON SINGER, Mason; HIROSHIMA, Hersey; MEETING BY MOONLIGHT, Knotts; DANGEROUS LADY, Cohen.

NON-FICTION

BALZAC by Stefan Zweig, is the author's final work. For 10 years, Zweig worked on this portrait of the great 19th century writer. Balzac was one of the truly gigantic figures of literature, and a man whose own life was lived with the boundless vigor and imagination that mark his writing. This penetrating evaluation of one literary master by another deals with Balzac as a literary artist and discusses his love affairs, his travels, and his colossal business enterprises.

UNDER THE RED SEA SUN, by Commander Edward Ellsberg, tells of the commander's experiences, facing with his men the almost incredible ordeal of rebuilding the smashed Italian port of Massawa. With time at a premium as Rommel raced across the Libyan desert, this sabotaged shambles must become a working port. This is a thrilling story of a great maritime epic told by the author of ON THE BOTTOM, raised to new levels of excitement by the urgency of war.

* * *

Other non-fiction: SHELF OF LINCOLN BOOKS, Angle; BEST PLAYS OF 1945-1946, Mantle; WILSON ERA, Daniels; MAKE YOUR OWN MERRY CHRISTMAS, Wertsner; NEW HOMES FOR TODAY, Williams; GERMANY TRIED DEMOCRACY, Halperin; THE COLORADO, Waters; GERMANY IN DEFEAT, Knouth; RECONQUEST, Abeed; SWEDE HOMESTEAD, Anderson.

Puerto Rico was known as Borinquen by its Indian inhabitants before Columbus' time.

TRANSPORTS GAS

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The Lake Erie Gas Transmission company has been organized to transport natural gas to northeast Ohio for resale through distributing concerns, Spencer W. Reeder, counsel for the concern announced last night.

WCTU LEADER REPORTS GAINS

EVANSTON, Ill.—(U.P.)—Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the national Woman's Christian Temperance Union, said today about 500 areas were voted dry by local option in the November elections, and attributed the trend to the heavy concentrations of drinking establishments.

She cited internal revenue reports that 407,046 places selling alcoholic beverages are operating, 46,562 more than in 1945, and said these figures indicated there is one place selling beer, wine or liquor for every 91 American families.

"Congestion of alcoholic beverage retailers, especially in neighborhood and rural areas, is the principal cause for steadily increasing local option elections," Mrs. Colvin said.

The WCTU president said Nevada is the "wettest" state with one retailer for every 29 families. Also above the national average, in order, are California, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Idaho, Connecticut, Florida, Oregon, Washington, Michigan, Maryland, Louisiana, Montana, New Jersey, South Dakota, Illinois, Washington, D. C., New York, Missouri, Wyoming and Ohio.

SOLON AGAIN ASKS TRUMAN TO RESIGN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) credited President Truman yesterday with a "very good job" in handling the coal strike crisis but clung to his recommendation that the chief executive resign in favor of a Republican.

Despite a barrage of criticism from both fellow Democrats and Republicans, the 41-year-old lawmaker said he still was convinced that Mr. Truman should step down "for the good of the country and for the good of his party."

RENZ ELECTED HEAD OF BOARD

MT. GILEAD — Guy Renz was elected president of the Morrow County Agricultural society when the fair board met recently. Renz succeeds Gar Smith as president.

Leo Wilcox, secretary of the 1946 fair board announced that he had asked the board not to consider him for that post next year. Wilcox stated that he could not afford to spend the time away from his business that the job of secretary required.

A new secretary is expected to be named when the board meets Saturday, December 21. Other officers named at last Saturday's meeting include Charles Dildine, Westfield township, vice president, and Walter Long, treasurer. Both Dildine and Long were re-elected.

In other actions the board approved a motion that the fair again be held in August. Dates selected, pending approval of the state department of agriculture are, August 14, 15 and 16.

In the annual financial report of the board receipts of $20,277 were reported during this year as against expenditures of $20,217. Admissions to the three-day event amounted to $5,289 compared to $5,039 at the 1945 fair. The report showed that the total paid attendance for the week was 10,578.

SHELBY COUNCIL TO TAKE ACTION ON SALARY HIKE

SHELBY—Action is expected to be taken on the 15-cent an hour wage increase for the employes of the Municipal Light and Water companies when the regular semi-monthly session of city council is held at city hall Monday at 7 p. m.

Discussed at the last meeting, the wage increase was tabled until this meeting so that the council's salary committee could hold a conference with R. J. Jameison of Cleveland, International Union of Operating Engineers' executive, to discuss a plan by which the wage increase could be taken away in case the cost of living dropped.

Jameison, who represents the union which is the bargaining agent for the utility workers, said in the conference that the employes would agree to an escalator clause to provide for decreases in case the cost of living goes down and increases in case it should continue to go up. Representing the council's salary committee at the conference were Councilmen Ross Sipes and James Herlihy.

* * *

Adkins to Answer.

J. P. Adkins, general manager of the municipal utilities, is expected to give council his answer as to whether he would resign as head of the water plant to continue only as superintendent of the light company at the same $383 monthly salary.

Adkins asked for an additional two weeks time to give his answer at the last council session so that he could have an opinion from legal counsel as to whether he would forfeit his civil service protection if he gave up the water post.

City council had received an opinion from Law Director Robert Green that it had no authority to remove Adkins from the water company post which was protected by classified civil service laws.

The council has contended that Adkins had neglected in his supervision of the water plant, causing damage to the water company's dam and reservoir banks, as well as giving the water consumers poor service.

* * *

Resignation Asked.

The council asked Adkins to resign voluntarily from the one utility before it took action for his removal through ordinance.

The council will also bring up the matter of appointing a captain for the police department to head up the night force in the absence of Police Chief Leroy Coffey.

Chief Coffey appeared at the last meeting and asked the council to authorize Mayor Frank Long to appoint such an officer with increased pay or to pass legislation to have a civil service examination held to promote a patrolman to the newly created post.

Mayor Long said that he would make his appointment following the recommendation of Chief Coffey if the job was not put under civil service, and if an examination was held, would appoint the patrolman with highest grade.

Editors Favor Checkup On State Department's Cultural Program

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The board of directors of the American Society of Newspaper Editors today adopted a report suggesting that the society appoint a special committee to review at intervals the work of the state department's office of international information and cultural affairs.

The report was made by an ASNE committee which was appointed to examine "the problem of the world dissemination of news." The committee surveyed the news dissemination operations of the OIC, directed by William Benton, assistant secretary of state, and discussed with executives of the United Press and the Associated Press their reasons for cutting off their services to the government agency after the end of the war.

The committee unanimously presented this final conclusion:

"The present uncertainties in international relations justify an effort by the United States government to make its activities and its policies clear to the people of the world through the agency set up in the state department. Your committee recognizes, however, the danger inherent in government dissemination of news and suggests that the society appoint a special committee to review at intervals the work of the state department agency and make its findings available to the membership."

* * *

THE COMMITTEE FOUND ITself "in complete agreement with the state department's distribution of official texts and operation of the libraries of American books and sources all over the world."

Benton told the committee that as of July 1 the OIC had 1276 employes in this country and 1895 abroad, a total of 3171. Of those employes in foreign countries, 372 are Americans. OIC news is disseminated through the daily short-wave program "voice of America and through distribution in foreign countries by OIC staffs which are part of the diplomatic and consular missions.

The committee observed that "private news agency executives expressed skepticism as to the net total effectiveness of the government's activity, and raised the issue of normal distrust of governmentally-disseminated and branded information by the consumer listener or reader."

ORDINANCE NO. 46-252

By Mr. Knarr:

Providing for the establishment of the Division of Garbage and Rubbish Collection and Disposal within the Department of Public Service, and stipulating a penalty for the violation of this Ordinance.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO.

Section 1. That the Division of Garbage and Rubbish Collection and Disposal be and the same is hereby created within the Department of Public Service. Same shall operate under the management and control of the Director of Public Service, who shall appoint a Superintendent of Garbage and Rubbish Collection and Disposal to immediately supervise the operation of the department for him.

Section 2. The Director of Public Service shall through said department collect and dispose of garbage and rubbish within the City of Mansfield, and shall make rules, regulations and provisions for said collection and disposal; and he shall have the authority to do all things necessary to carry out the provisions of this Ordinance, subject to the powers of City Council.

Section 3: The word garbage as herein used shall be defined as all kitchen refuse, vegetable or animal matter, as may become decomposed or dangerous or offensive to the public health—however excluding refuse that is not readily consumed by burning.

The word rubbish as herein used shall be defined as all household waste matter such as ashes cinders, cans, glass, porcelain, crockery and trash.

Section 4. It shall be the duty of every owner, tenant, agent, lessee, occupant or person in charge of any building, premises or place of business in the City of Mansfield, to forthwith provide or cause to be provided, and thereafter at all times to keep or cause to be kept proper receptacles for receiving and holding all garbage and rubbish that may accumulate. Receptacles for garbage shall be approved, metallic, water tight garbage cans of not more than ten (10) gallon capacity, with tight fitting lid and two (2) handles or bail. Water must be drained off garbage and same must be wrapped in paper before being placed in receptacle. Receptacles for rubbish and ashes shall be of either wood or metal construction and of weight and dimensions as can be conveniently handled. Said receptacles shall be kept in locations easily accessible to collector. Garbage receptacles should be on the ground floor.

Section 5. It shall be the duty of the Director of Public Service to collect and dispose of all garbage and rubbish of patron subscribers for either or both of the services—provided that rubbish service shall be available only to patrons of the garbage service.

Section 6: Patrons of garbage service shall pay the following charges for weekly collections:

12 months @ $7.20 or 6 months @ $3.60—10 gallons per week.
12 months @ $14.40 or 6 months @ $7.20—11-20 gallon per week
12 months @ $21.60 or 6 months @ $10.80—21-30 gallon per week.
12 months @ $28.80 or 6 months @ $14.40—31-40 gallon per week.

All additional gallonage shall be at the rate of last above stated, except that the Director of Public Service may provide a different schedule of rates for collection of quantities of garbage in excess of forty (40) gallon per week. At no time shall said rate or price be fixed in an amount less than actual cost of removal and disposal of garbage.

Patrons of rubbish service shall pay the following charges for thirty (30) day collections, during each twelve (12) months.

One service or 9 bushels or 300 pounds monthly collection $6.00.
10 to 18 bushels or 301 to 600 pounds monthly collection $12.00
19 to 27 bushels or 601 to 900 pounds monthly collection $18.00.
28 to 36 bushels or 901 to 1200 pounds monthly collection $24.00.

All additional bushels or pounds shall be at the rate last above stated, except that the Director of Public Service may provide a different schedule of rates for collection of quantities of rubbish in excess of 36 bushels or 1200 pounds monthly. At no time shall said rate or price be fixed in an amount less than actual cost of removal and disposal of rubbish. Patrons of rubbish service without ashes or cinders, shall pay only one-half (½) the regular rubbish rate set forth above.

Garbage and rubbish service charges shall be billed in advance in semi-annual periods beginning February and August 1st. Payments shall be made in advance of period at the City Building at the peril of service being discontinued without notice.

Section 7: It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to place garbage or rubbish upon any lot, street, alley or public ground within the corporate limits of the City of Mansfield.

No garbage shall be moved or hauled over or through any of the streets or alleys within the City of Mansfield, except (1) in the can or cans in which it was originally deposited or (2) in vehicles with water tight lids covering same.

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to collect, remove or haul garbage in, over, or through any of the streets or alleys of the City of Mansfield, or to engage in the business of collecting, hauling or transporting rubbish and ashes through the public ways of the City of Mansfield, without first obtaining a permit so to do from the Director of Public Service, except that regular patrons of garbage and rubbish service shall have the privilege to haul their own excess garbage and rubbish to the municipal incinerator and dumping grounds without said permit or additional cost. Said permits shall be for a period of six (6) months from issuance and shall cost Five Dollars ($5.00).

Whoever violates any of the provisions of this section, shall upon conviction thereof in a court of competent jurisdiction be adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor and fined in a sum of not more than Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) for each and every offense.

Section 8: All garbage shall be taken to the City incinerators and burned or disposed of in such other manner provided; and all rubbish shall be disposed at a proper dumping ground outside the corporate limits of the City of Mansfield, except when the Director of Public Service grants special permission to dump inside the corporate limits of the City. All dumping grounds shall be closed from nine o'clock (9:00) p. m. to seven o'clock (7:00) a. m. on week days and all day Sunday.

Section 9: All monies and revenues received from any source or in any manner for the collection or disposal of garbage and rubbish, shall be held in the Department of Garbage and Rubbish and applied to the expense of conducting and operating said department.

Worth its wait in Golden Moments

THE first big moment comes, of course, when you step out of your door, and there's your very own Buick, all ready and waiting.

The next one comes when you roll down the street in this handsome creation — and practically feel the eyes of the passers-by following.

You get another lift the first time you meet a hill, and the voice of your Fireball straight-eight engine drops from baritone to bass as it meets the challenge — and tramps the grade down into easy levelness.

Then some night you'll find yourself alone on a quiet moonlit country road — and the whisper of your engine, the soft tread of your coil-sprung wheels, your gentle, cradled, easy stride, will fill your soul with a peace you wouldn't trade for worlds.

The simple truth is that it's not only an automobile you wait for when you wait for a Buick — it's an endless series of sweet satisfactions.

It's not just a matter of size and room and Fireball power and all-coil springing, as any Buick owner will tell you — it's the wonderful way all these add up to make a constant flow of golden moments.

You'd like those moments to start coming soon. So would the whole, hard-hitting crew that's waging relentless war against delays and shortages to produce Buicks for you — and fast.

But the most important thing — when you think it out — is what you get rather than when you get it — and what you really want is found nowhere else but in Buick.

Why not settle your mind on that and be done with it? You can place your order now for future delivery, with or without a car to turn in — though we like to get trade-ins for our used-car buyers.

Mrs. Vinson, First Lady of High Court, Shares Hubby's Talents as Conciliator

By MALVINA STEPHENSON
(Central Press Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—Roberta Dixon Vinson, wife of the new chief justice, shares her husband's talent for smoothing troubled waters and easing situations.

While he is serving as a conciliator within the court, she can do her bit on the distaff side.

It just so happens that in her long career as an official wife in Washington, Mrs. V. (as her friends affectionately call her) became well acquainted with all the supreme court wives. Especially is she friendly with Mrs. Stanley Reed, who hails from their native Kentucky.

* * *

IN THE PAST, THE SUPREME court families have not been so clubby socially, but Mrs. Vinson plans to bring the wives together for little judicial conferences of their own. Perhaps, this will break the ice and result in a closer relationship.

The big question facing the distaff side of the high court deals with the weekly open house. Mrs. Harlan F. Stone, widow of the late chief justice, received callers every Monday afternoon from November through July.

The general tendency now is to cut down the pre-war scale of official entertainment, so Mrs. Vinson and her associates may decide to limit the calling period to two or three months, beginning next January.

* * *

"OF COURSE, I WOULDN'T think of making any change without consulting the other court wives," Mrs. Vinson explains with characteristic diplomacy.

The meeting of the court wives should run smoothly enough, if the chief justice's preliminary findings are an indication of the general feeling.

"My husband found that reports of differences among the justices had been exaggerated considerably," Mrs. Vinson confided in a recent interview at their hotel apartment here. "The justices all shook hands at the start of the term, and they have continued pleasant with each other."

* * *

NATURALLY, THAT PLEASES Mrs. Vinson. "It just means that it will be easier on my husband and less of a strain," she adds seriously.

Of course, the new role for the Vinsons is quite exacting in many ways, and they find their previous schedule somewhat curtailed.

"The supreme court justices work harder than people think," Mrs. Vinson assures. "And, on Saturdays, they have long conference periods."

Washington, however, has not found any change in the Vinson couple personally. They remain the same friendly, unaffected pair for whom the capital long ago came to have a real affection.

* * *

DESPITE THEIR LONG EXperience in the top level of all three branches of the government, Mrs. Vinson says she and her husband were somewhat taken back at the idea of the chief justiceship. They could not entirely reconcile themselves to the austerity and aloofness generally associated with this judical tower.

So, the Vinsons came to a happy conclusion, the common sense solution. They decided to adjust their new role to their own personalities, rather than try to fit into any preconceived ideas of what it should be like.

"Besides," Mrs. Vinson added with a twinkle, "we thought it might be well to add an extra warmth and human touch."

* * *

AS A RESULT, THE VINSONS have continued to make a hit in official Washington. As Mrs. Vinson put it, they decided to continue doing "what comes naturally."

THE VINSONS—She just knew that he would eventually reach the top.

Asked about her husband's reputation as a family arbiter, Mrs. Vinson laughed and said, "He doesn't get a chance. We're a family of individualists."

For example, son Fred, Jr., had his heart set on the Air Corps. So, his parents let him choose his own course, and he went proudly through the war as a gunner on a B-29. Happily, he came through studying law at Washington and Lee, preparing to follow in his father's legal footsteps. Seventeen-year-old Jimmy, who was responsible for the Vinson's famous pet squirrel, lives at home.

* * *

MRS. VINSON IS QUITE A favorite with her boys' friends, and they often come to her with their problems. As a matter of fact, young people in general are her hobby, in addition to "crazy hats."

Margaret Truman, the president's daughter, likes to confide in Mrs. Vinson. She calls the chief justice's wife "Mummy Vin."

Mrs. Vinson has always considered her prime job as maintaining a serene, smooth-running home for her husband. And, this, in no small way has contributed to his success.

* * *

MRS. VINSON IS NOT SURprised at her husband's rise to official fame. "I always expected big things of Fred," she said. "I knew he had capacity and he grew from one thing to the other."

In her husband's varied career in the capital, Mrs. Vinson thinks the war jobs were the toughest. "There were long hours and great responsibility," she recalls. "Critical decisions had to be made on the spur of the moment."

The chief justice is a tall, slope-shouldered man with graying hair and strong features. He is scholarly, inclined to the serious side but gets along well with people. Mrs. Vinson, several inches shorter and eight years younger, has a pretty face and a merry disposition. They are a very devoted couple and have had an interesting influence on each other.

* * *

THE VINSONS GREW UP IN the same little town of Louisa, Ky., and they still maintain a home at Ashland. Their families were involved in one of those well known Kentucky feuds, with ballots instead of bullets, and it took young Fred some time to overcome it

The former Roberta Dixon finally agreed to a date, after her mother's intervention, and then Papa Dixon was won over by his women folk. Their marriage followed in 1922, and shortly afterward Fred Vinson came to Congress.

From Capitol Hill, he went to the District of Columbia court of appeals second only in prestige to the court over which he now presides. Then he was started on a dizzy series of promotions that set an all-time record.

* * *

FROM ECONOMIC STABILIzer, he went to head the Federal Loan Administration for three weeks, and then back to the White House as reconversion director succeeding Jimmy Byrnes.

President Truman next made Vinson secretary of the treasury and, again, when a good man was needed in a pinch, Fred Vinson was elevated to chief justice last June. With Mrs. Vinson and their children, he was sworn in at an unusual ceremony on the South Portico of the White House.

"Just when I was getting ready to go strong in politics, you and Fred tie my hands," Mrs. Vinson smilingly teased the president over her husband's appointment.

* * *

Mrs. Vinson, however, still can have her private interest in politics, and harking back to long years in the mill, you can bet she had her ear glued to the radio to follow the recent election returns.

While this interest was by force of habit, the results of this year's election have served to place her husband's name high on the list again of presidential possibilities for 1948.

When informed of the various writers and commentators advancing her husband's name, Mrs. Vinson simply said she was "appalled" and knew her husband would be, too. That was all, but observers here believe it unlikely that the new chief justice would even consider stepping down from his high post, especially in the face of a Republican trend.

House Dearth, She Says, Put 3 In a Berth

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Dawna Clawson Francis, 21 years old, and 33 1-3 per cent of a triplet sister song and dance team, had a divorce today from Guy E. Francis, a night club promoter, after a feminine witness testified that the husband, "because of the housing shortage," was middleman in a three-in-a-bed act with two girl companions.

The blond witness, June Dummer Warne, a bookkeeper, said that she, Francis and Bettylou McClain were forced into the informal sleeping arrangements by lack of housing accommodations. Dawna was absent on a USO tour at the time, the court was informed.

Miss McClain, a co-defendant in the suit, denied the allegation, and Francis' attorney called it a "frameup."

Mrs. Francis was awarded a half interest in her husband's night club.

GOBLE TO BECOME ADJUTANT GENERAL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Col. Chester W. Goble of Columbus, Ohio selective service director since March, 1941, will be adjutant general of Ohio in the cabinet of Gov.-elect Thomas J. Herbert.

Herbert announced appointment yesterday of Goble, a military man since he enlisted in the Ohio National Guard in 1908 and several months ago recipient of the Distinguished Service Medal and the Army Commendation ribbon for his work as director of Ohio's selective service machinery since before Pearl Harbor.

Goble said last night he expected to continue as selective service chief after succeeding Adj. Gen. Donald F. Pancoast.

PILES ARE NEVER MILD

DANGER IN NEGLECT

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

TYGERS PLAY SECOND HOME TILT TONIGHT

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

FRIENDLY HOUSE-40 ET 8 fisticuff shows promise to keep getting better as the season progresses.... Matchmaker Mike Wentz keeps on the ball trying to land the best amateur talent in this part of the state. . . . And from the Mansfield F-H stable there is bound to be some mighty clever talent. . . . Four trainers—Paul Carbetta, Max Miller, Joe Zimmerman and Johnny Mándel—are working with upwards to 25 lads Mondays through Fridays. . . . Wentz expects to have between eight and ten Mansfield fighters on the Christmas card next Thursday at Senior high. . . . Jerry Heminger, the Tiffin terror, who fought on main events in last season's F-H-40 et 8 series is going great guns as a pro. . . . He has been booked into Madison Square Garden for prelim goes.

Physical Director John Fike has added gymnastics and tumbling to several YMCA classes. . . . The hustling Fike is trying to get evening handball and weight-lifting started. . . . Six men have already signed up for a handball league. . . . Paul Tapper will handle the bar-bell exponents.

Mansfield Boxing and Wrestling commission threw a going away party for Harold Bloodgood, chairman, last night at Scotty's. . . . Bloodgood is going to sunny Florida for 10 weeks. . . . He leaves Monday for Miami shores and we really envy the guy who'll be watching the bangtails at beautiful Hialeah mighty soon.

Earl "Pooch" Pollock, secretary of the commission, announced yesterday that there will be no more wrestling at the Armory until Promoter Eary Myers' show on Jan. 1. . . . The post office takes over the Armory for the next two weeks because of the Christmas rush. . . . Other commission members are Fred Rosen, J. M. "Gyp" Miller and Jess Willard.

Coach Bo McMillin has won five more conference games in his 13 years at Indiana than eight predecessors did between 1900 and Bo's arrival. . . . Cleveland Arena will be a busy place Saturday and Sunday. . . . The Barons meet the Providence Reds in an American league puck contest Saturday night and the Rebels play the high-flying New York Knickerbockers in a pro hoop game Sunday night. . . . Two high school basketball games are on the afternoon card.

Colonel Buster Mills, one-time army "looey" and journeyman baseballer, has inked a contract as a White Sox coach. . . . He started in the Cleveland Indians' outfield in 1931 after leaving the University of Oklahoma. . . . Then commenced his diamond travels which are equalled only by Buck Newsom and Babe Dahlgren. . . . Colonel ('tis actually his first name) has short stretches with the Yankees, Red Sox, Browns interspersed with short minor league visits at Kansas City, Newark and Rochester. . . . Last season he started as an Indians' player and ended as a coach. . . . Buster played service baseball at Waco army air field with a team that included Hoot Evers, Birdie Tebbets, Sid Hudson and a galaxy of minor leaguers.

1948

Oct. 2, University of Southern California, site indefinite; Oct. 9, Iowa, home; Oct. 16, Indiana, away; Oct. 23, Wisconsin, home; Oct. 30, Northewestrn, away; Nov. 6, Pittsburgh, home; Nov. 13, Illinois, away; Nov. 20, Michigan, home.

1949

Oct. 1. Indiana, home; Oct. 8; Southern California, site undecided; Oct. 15, Minnesota, home; Oct. 22, Wisconsin, away; Oct. 29, Northwestern, home; Nov. 5, Pittsburgh, away; Nov. 12, Illinois home; Nov. 19, Michigan, away.

Bears Depart

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Chicago Bears, along with Owner Coach George Halas were to depart for the east today for their National football league championship battle with the New York Giants in the Polo grounds Sunday.

Rams Entertain Birds; Cleveland Collinwood Meets Senior High Five

Coach Vern Hoffman's Mansfield Tyger basketballers face one of their toughest tests of the campaign tonight when they collide with the tall Cleveland Collinwood hoop artists in the Senior high gym. A prelim opens the festivities at 7 p. m.

Collinwood and Lima South tomorrow night are the last tune-up battles before the Bengals vie with Toledo Libbey, Akron North and Columbus Bexley in the first annual cage carnival here next Friday and Saturday. The Tygers travel to South tomorrow.

Mansfield will be in better shape than it was in losing to Bellevue, 53-47, Tuesday night. The Tygers played without the services of scrappy Ralph Majors in that one, but the ace ballhandler and rebound lad will be in the starting lineup against Collinwood.

However, Majors may wind up at guard instead of his regular forward position. Nick Gagich, the rugged back guard, is suffering from a boil on his leg and may not be able to move around too freely. If Majors is moved to the back line, Bernie Weaver will go again at forward.

Weaver saw his first varsity action in the Bellevue fracas and accredited himself satisfactorily. He was a steadying influence on the Tyger club and his size was a distinct asset around the bankboards.

Remainder of Hoffman's lineup will have Tom Bloor, forward; Chuck Sisco, center, and Ollie Cline, guard. Cline leads the Tygers scorers after two games with 26 points while Bloor has notched 22. Sisco is third in the point column with 18.

Collinwood will start four players that participated last year when Mansfield eked out a 27 to 25 victory on the Clevelanders' floor. Ferato, Silla, Sedlock and DeMario went against the Tygers in '45. Silla and Sedlock picked up 14 points for the Collinwood outfit last year.

Fred Staub's sophomore cagers meet the Collinwood reserves in the opener. The Tyger cubs have broken even in two games.

The Bengal varsity and soph squads leave for Lima in private cars tomorrow afternoon. South has yet to win a game this season.

Mansfield Madison will be after its second cage victory in three starts against Loudonville on the Ram court tonight at 8:15.

Coach Jeff DeHaven is expecting Coach Jimmy Hunter's Red Birds to employ a fast breaking combine and a tight man-to-man defense.

The Red Birds are still smarting from losses at the hands of Chester and Orrville, and will be after victory No. 1.

Hunter's squad might suffer the loss of Dick Foster, second all-sectional forward, who led the scoring for the Loudonville cagers last season.

Foster cut his finger nail off in the school's machine shop this past week and his shooting might be impaired for the Rams-Red Bird fracas.

The Loudonville mentor announced his probable starting lineup as: Joe Redd and Don Kemp, forwards; Jim Buzzard, center; and either Roger Hunter or Dick Beck will start at guard with Captain Don Wickham.

DeHaven will start Eldon Pritchard and Herb Eldridge at forward, Bob Wilson, center, and Dick Poth and Dick Ernsberger, guards.

The Madison reserves will be seeking their second win over the Loudonville reserves in the preliminary contest at 7:15.

Pest Control Sets Fox Hunt

Richland county game and pest control will hold its second fox hunt at the Olentangy Beagle club, five miles east of Mansfield off Route 30 at 9 a. m. tomorrow, Harold Snyder, president, announced today.

Snyder said that any youngsters interested in the hunt are cordially invited and that several competent men will pledge themselves as father of the day.

Dinner will be served at the East Mansfield school cafeteria, in charge of the East Mansfield Presbyterian church.

Ray McMillan has been named field marshall for the hunt and any sportsmen seeking further information should call 1963-1.

Book 12 Games For Shelby 5

SHELBY—Shelby's junior high basketball team will play a schedule of 12 games during the 1946-47 season. The youngsters opened last night against Galion and meet Mansfield John Simpson here next Monday.

Coach Al Fendrick has a squad of 35 candidates trying for places on the team. Leading players are David Gump, William Stickney, Lawrence Paine, Jerry Wilson, Charles Blosser, Harold Fisher, Russell Adkins, Arthur Porter, Robert Utz and Robert Johnson.

Western Conference Schedule Trend Definitely 'Westward Ho'

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Big Nine today had its football decks cleared for action for the next three seasons and plainly "played ball" in schedule-making with its new partner in the Rose Bowl, the Pacific Coast conference.

Conference coaches, working until late last night, drafted league cards for 1948 and 1949. The 1947 schedule was arranged at the conference spring meeting this year.

Although the 1948-49 schedules leave most schools with at least two outside games needed to fill the maximum nine-game limit, the trend definitely was "westward ho."

Six Big Nine schools next year will encounter Pacific Coast rivals, with Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota and Northwestern opening fresh series against Far Westerners and Ohio State and Wisconsin continuing intersectional rivalry launched this season.

Perhaps the most important new series is a four-year pact starting next year and to be completed within the next six seasons between Michigan and Stanford, who were rivals in the first Rose Bowl game in 1902. As far as Big Nine rivals are concerned, Michigan is the team to whip next year and the likely successor to Illinois as the midwest's Pasadena contender. The Wolverines were barely edged by the Illini for the bowl trip on New Year's day.

Iowa and Northwestern take on UCLA, this year's west coast bowl representative, in two-game sets beginning next year, while Minnesota renews a pre-war rivalry with Washington's Huskies.

Wisconsin is host to California next season, and Ohio State has booked USC through 1949, although the sites of the 1948 and 1949 games have not been settled.

The East also figures prominently in the Big Nine's future book with Army, Navy, Yale, Pittsburgh and Boston College listed. Illinois next year opens a two-year series with Army at Champaign, while Yale entertains Wisconsin in the first of a two-game stand.

Michigan catches up on a date with Navy at Ann Arbor in 1948 which is a carry-over from their 1945 meeting in the East.

NEW YORK—Glenn Dobbs of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Orben (Speck) Sanders of the New York Yankees, both members of the All-American conference, today held the distinction of being the only freshmen to crash the Associated Press 1946 All-Pro team.

Dobbs gained All-America honors while with Tulsa in 1942 and Sanders picked up his experience with Texas and two Navy Pre-flight schools.

Two other conference players, Guard Bil Radovich of the Los Angeles Dons and Tackle Frank (Bruiser) Kinard of the Yankees, were the other conference players to make the All-Pro.

Radovich was selected in 1945 when he played for the Detroit Lions in the National Football league, which gained seven places on the All-Pro. Kinard was chosen four previous times while a member of the old Brooklyn Dodgers in the NFL.

Joining Dobbs and Sanders in the backfield are Bob Waterfield, brilliant T formation passer from the Los Angeles Rams, and Ted Fritsch, 210-pound fullback with the Green Bay Packers. Waterfield made the team in 1945 as a member of the Cleveland Rams. Fritsch, playing his fifth season for the Packers, gained the honors for the first time.

Jim Benton, the end who hauls down aerials thrown by Waterfield, and Jim Poole of the New York Giants, proved by the voting of sports writers and coaches to be the two best flankers in the play-for-play game.

Benton also was chosen in 1945. Poole last made All-Pro in 1939.

The selection of Riley Matheson for one of the guard berths gives the Rams three All-Pros, the same as in '45. Matheson has made the team the last three seasons.

Al Wistert, who joins Kinard as a tackle, made the team for the third straight year as a member of the Philadelphia Eagles.

The unanimous choice at center was Clyde (Bulldog) Turner of the Chicago Bears, western division winners in the NFL. Turner made four previous All-Pro elevens and at 240 pounds is the heaviest man on a line that averages 221 pounds.

Marion Motley, 26-year-old pro freshman who played for Nevada, was the standout for the Cleveland Browns, western division winners in the conference. However, he failed to impress in New York.

New Development In Winter Wonderland Will Prove the Test For Skiers . . . .

QUEBEC, P.Q., . . . (1946-1947) . . . With international ski competitions dwarfed by the war for seven years, the outcome of the recently re-scheduled Canadian Ski Championships, to be held at Mont Ste-Anne, near Quebec City, February 20th-23rd, will undoubtedly place the true calibre of present day American and Canadian racers and jumpers in bold relief.

Four main classes will be held for Ladies, Senior and Junior men, with Open events which will include entries from all over Canada, United States and Europe.

Mont Ste-Anne, the scene of the championships is a brand new ski development situated some 30 miles north-east of Quebec City, mecca even in ordinary years for thousands of winter sports enthusiasts. Ste-Anne Mountain is just five miles from the world famous Ste-Anne de Beaupre Shrine and may be seen in the distance of a clear day from Dufferin Terrace near the Chateau Frontenac Hotel in Quebec.

Downhill and Slalom racers will exhibit their wares on silk-smooth courses at Ste-Anne. Cross Country racers will battle over a testing 11.5 miles between Valcartier and Lac Beauport, itself one of the great ski centres of America.

Competitors will enjoy use of a specially constructed Log Chateau, built for their convenience, in practice and during the races, atop lofty Mont Ste-Anne. Likewise they wil inaugurate the new awe-inspiring 70 meter jump on the same mountain this winter. This jump, on which distances of over 200 feet can be expected, is easily the largest in Eastern Canada.

But ski fans are asking today, "How good are our racers by international standards?" They will have their answers February 23rd., for strong foreign entries are expected. A tip-off in advance should be the showings of Canadians in Chile, United States and in local events in the past year. These would indicate that the land of the Maple Leaf will be strongly represented at Mont Ste-Anne in February. The 1947 championships are actually sponsored by the St. Lawrence Valley Zone, part of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association's affiliated zoning group, but technically supervised by the parent body.—Adv.
